COUNTY FAIR MAKING NEW RECORD FOR QUALITY AND QUANTITY OF EXHIBITS

This Year's Midway, Too, Among Largest and Loudest of Its Kind—Wednesday's Racing on Improved Track Interesting—Speedy Autos To Rival Thoroughbreds In Interest Friday.

Again the Freeman is compelled to use the expression "Bigger and Better Than Ever" to describe the 1921 Ulster County Fair, which closes tomorrow.

Bosco the wonder who "eats 'em alive" is missing but there are enough other wonders to make up for the absence of Bosco. Never since the institution of the fair at Ellenville have there been so many exhibits on the grounds and never has the midway been so large. The races which were held Wednesday afternoon were real horse races and the 2:30 class trot or pace with nine entries proved to be a real race. In the first heat of this race which was run off in 2:23 1/2, Nealon, owned by F. H. Osborn, came in under the wire a couple of strides ahead of June Hal, owned by Robert Stapleton who drove the last half mile with a broken hoppel.

The second heat of this race resulted in the same, Nealon came in first and June Hal second. The time of the second heat was somewhat faster than the first time of the mile being 2:22 1/2, and for the entire distance it was a fight between the two for first position. The other races were the 2:35 class trot or pace for a purse of $200, and the special race for a purse of $150.

The races Wednesday were the best races which have been staged on the Ellenville track in some time. The track has recently been resurfaced and is in excellent condition. Today's races include the 2:21 class trot or pace; the 2:17 class trot or pace, both for a purse of $400. Before the races the hitching contest for men and women for a purse of $25 each will be staged.

Friday is the big day of the fair. This is automobile day. There will be two automobile races immediately after the horse races. One five mile race for a purse of $250 and a ten mile race for a purse of $250. Both races are going to prove to be thrillers as at least ten cars will start in the races, which may have to be run off in two heats. Several of the cars have been tried out and have proved to be fast ones. On the half mile track it will be possible to see the racers all around the track from the grand stand. Although the horses are holding their own on the track, the automobile races have attracted a great deal of attention and it is expected that the record crowd will be in attendance Friday.

Friday's horse races are the hand-icapped 3-heat race for a purse of $300 and the 2:27 class trot or pace for a purse of $400. The starter, of course, will be Mr. La Hiff of Keene, New Hampshire, who between races will sing with Clayton's band. Mr. La Hiff will sing any song by request, provided the music is in his collection or is supplied. Today by request Mr. La Hiff will sing "When You and I Were Young, Maggie."

The midway this year includes many new attractions and is the biggest midway ever at the Ellenville fair. Every inch of space on the midway has been made use of. Leather lungs have been installed their booths from the upper end near the exhibition building to the entrance gate. There is a regular merry-go-round and a big Ferris wheel and hundreds of other novelties and games where all kinds of things from a "good" cigar to almost anything might be won.

One feature of the fair this year is the unusual number of automobiles exhibited. The Arcadia Garage of Kerhonkson has a booth where Dodge and Buick cars are shown. Herron & Doyle of Mountaintop have an exhibit of the Elgin 6. The Schuyler Garage of Kingston has a large exhibit of Hupmobiles, Oldsmobiles and White trucks. Marshall-Jensen & Company of Ellenville have an exhibit of Henry Ford's products. George J. Schryver has Overlands and Nash cars. Kuhlman of Ellenville has a complete line of Paige cars and Kissell-Cars. This is one of the biggest exhibits at the fair and one of the finest.

The Ellenville Post Garage an exhibit of Maxwell cars. The Ulster Garage of this city has an exhibit of the new Oakland for which they have just taken the agency and have a five passenger touring car on exhibition. A Cadillac coupe and a Willis Sainte Claire are also shown. The Willis Sainte Claire is a new light eight cylinder car which has just been added to the Ulster Garage line. The car although a small one, is capable of wonderful performance and great speed.

Sons of South Worcester have 4 car loads. Poultry of all kinds are shown. Ray C. Brown of Hampton, Washington county, has one of the best strings of bantams in the country. He has between 600 and 700 bantams representing nearly known breeds. Mrs. W. W. Howes of Old Chatham has a carload of poultry. William Schouder of Pleasant Valley also has one car load. My Own Poultry Farm of Ellenville has 3 car loads and about 900 birds.

The fruit exhibits are exceptionally fine this year and make a good showing. As the season is from one to two weeks ahead of normal many of the varieties of fruit are ripe and make an exceptional showing. The fruit exhibit is consequently the best ever shown at Ellenville.

J. W. Weaver & Son of Highland, Graham Hurd & Son of Clintonville, Mrs. W. P. Masten of Pleasant Valley and A. B. Tice of Spring Glen have some of the finest and largest exhibits.

The feature of the vegetable show is the exhibit of L. Krom of Accord, who has 75 varieties of potatoes entered. The Rochester Township Fair Association has a fine commercial exhibit. There are numerous smaller exhibits in this department.

In the main exhibition hall the domestic exhibits are all exceptionally good. The home and Farm Bureau has a very fine display.

The string of race horses at the fair this year is exceptionally large and the races promise to show some thing in the way of class. There are about fifty horses at the track, the most ever housed there, and judging from the showing made by the horses on the opening day of the races there will be some hard fought contests.

Taken as a whole the Ulster County Fair this year is larger in every way than in former years and a fair of which the officials should be proud.

Friday will be the banner day of the fair with both horse races and automobile races to keep things lively and the mid way in full swing to amuse and entertain the children as well as the grown-ups.

The State Troopers were on the job acting as traffic policemen, directing the traffic and assisting in parking the hundreds of automobiles which thronged the park.

QUOTATIONS AT PUBLIC MARKET

The wholesale public market on Field Court is growing in popularity and there was another large attendance of buyers and sellers this morning at the market. Friday is always a big market and there will be a full line of fruit and vegetables. Purchasers should make it a point to be on hand that morning early in order to obtain their supplies.

The wholesale quotations today were: Green egg plums—$1.75 per basket. Blue grapes—$1.75 per basket. White grapes—$1.75 per basket. Pink grapes—$2 per basket. Peaches—75 cents to $1.75 per basket. Tomatoes—40 to 50 cents per basket. Bartlett pears—$1.25 per basket. Apples—40 to 60 cents per basket.

Green beans—$1.75 per bushel. Wax beans—$1.75 per bushel. Cabbage—$8.50 per 100. Red peppers—$3 per 100. Green peppers—$1 per 100. Cauliflower—30 to 35 cents per dozen bunches.

Beets—35 to 40 cents per dozen bunches. Home grown lettuce—$1.50 to $1.75 per crate. Strictly fresh eggs—58 cents a dozen per crate. Home grown watermelon—25 to 30 cents each. Home grown cantaloupe—$1.50 per crate. Sweet corn—$1.25 per 100. Cucumbers—90 cents to $1 per 100. Pickles—40 to 60 cents per 100. Dill pickles—90 cents per 100.

TAKES NEW AGENCIES. Ulster Garage Handling Two More Makes of Cars. The Ulster Garage on Fair street has just taken the agency for the new Oakland car and has received a demonstrator which is being shown this week at the Ellenville fair. Beside the Cadillac car which they have been agents for for several years they have taken on the agency for the Willis Sainte Claire, a light eight cylinder car made in Marysville, Mich. The Willis Sainte Claire is made of the new molybdenum steel which besides giving light weight adds strength. The car is capable of 70 miles an hour in the regular stock model and is one of the nicest fine built cars manufactured having all conveniences as well as necessities. David I. Han- van, salesman, is showing the car at Ellenville during the fair.

WHO AM I? WHERE AM I? HE ASKED

Stranger Accosted Officer Entrott This Morning Seeking Information About Himself—Can't Recall His Name or Where He Lives.

"Where am I?" asked a pleasant faced stranger as he stepped up to Officer Winfield Entrott on lower Broadway this morning, and when informed that he was in Kingston he asked "Who am I?"

"If you don't know I am sure I don't," replied Officer Entrott with a genial smile.

The stranger then confessed that he had forgotten both his name and where he lived, although he was positive he resided somewhere in New York state.

"If I could only remember my name and address," he said, "I could get in touch with my wife for she will be frantic when she doesn't hear from me."

Officer Entrott suggested that it would be a good idea to go to police headquarters and inform Chief Wood of his troubles.

At police headquarters the stranger said he was 46 years old, and that the last he could remember was seeing his wife off on a train at the Grand Central station in New York city. They had gone to New York, he said, and she had gone home from there on a Thursday some time in August. Just when he could not remember. That was the last recollection of events in his life that he could remember.

In reply to questions by Chief Wood and Sergeant Hanley he said that the suit he was wearing was not his own. The suit was several sizes too large for him. He also remembered that he had had a new black traveling bag.

When he accosted Officer Entrott all he had with him was a small cardboard box containing a few toilet articles. Sergeant Hanley found a pawn ticket in the hand of the stranger's straw hat which denoted that he had pawned the bag and contents for $1.25 in a Park Row, New York, pawnshop. The stranger had no recollection of placing the pawn ticket in the inside band of his hat and appeared surprised when it was shown him.

From his story it developed that he was married. His wife was a Miss May Kitchen of Newtown, Pa., and they were united in marriage in Syracuse and have a daughter 13 years old. His wife's father is named Addison Kitchen and he is a contractor in Newtown.

The stranger said he had no idea as to when or how he reached Kingston, but had a dim recollection in coming here crossing the Rondout creek on a small ferry, evidently the Skillypot. Judging from the appearance of his shoes the stranger was of the opinion that he had walked a long distance.

He said that he had worked for the American Book Company in New York city but had quit his job last May. His memory was excellent as to what had occurred previous to the time he saw his wife off on a train in New York city, but as to the events in his life since then his mind was a blank.

He had nothing in his possession that would give a clue as to his identity.

He kept repeating over and over that if he could only remember what his name was he was sure that he could remember where he lived and would be able to relieve his wife's anxiety as to his whereabouts.

There have been many cases of amnesia, or loss of memory, reported throughout the country, but as far as known this is the first that had been brought to the attention of the local police in many years.

Chief Wood informed the stranger that he would make an effort to get in touch with his wife's people at Newtown, Pa., and might be able in that way to establish the identity of the man.

The stranger is a man of slight build with dark hair and a small mustache. He is bald on top of his head, and shows evidence of being educated and intelligent when in his right mind.

BRIDGE DERRICK FELL WITH CRASH

Strain Too Much When An Attempt Was Made To Hoist Machinery From Hull of President Underwood's Yacht in Rondout Creek.

The huge derrick erected on West Strand by Terry & Tench, bridge contractors, to hoist the steel framework for the Rondout creek bridge into place, fell with a crash early this morning when an effort was made to hoist machinery from the burned hull of President Underwood's yacht that was berthed near the bridge site. The only one injured was Gerald Fagin, who is employed on the Island Dock, who had the side of one leg bruised when it was struck by a flying guy rope. The injury, however, was not serious.

Some time ago Mr. Underwood, who is president of the Erie Railroad, had his private yacht gutted by fire at Newburgh. On Wednesday the yacht was towed into the Rondout creek and berthed near the bridge site so that the machinery could be hoisted out of the hull and swung onto a railroad barge. The yacht is to be junked, it is said.

Arrangements were made with Terry & Tench to use the big bridge derrick to remove the machinery from the yacht. This morning shortly after 9 o'clock the derrick was swung into position and everything made fast and the power applied to lift the machinery out of the yacht. Evidently the weight of the machinery was too great for the derrick for part of the support holding the derrick in place buckled and the huge derrick, swaying slightly, toppled earthward, and fell with a crash against the side of the steep bank.

As the derrick slowly toppled over the hoisting boom struck part of the steel framework of the bridge at a point just outside the steel tower and knocked a deep dent in the steel, but not damaging it enough to make it necessary to remove it. That no one was injured by the falling derrick was remarkable, and was probably due to the fact that it gave way slowly.

During the summer months reckless automobilists drive at full speed through the Strand to Kingston Point—Two Arrested Wednesday.

Wednesday afternoon about 3 o'clock Policeman Hess arrested Abraham Singer and Philip Tucker, two chauffeurs, on a charge of recklessly racing their automobiles on the Strand and passing a trolley car discharging passengers. The hearing was adjourned until Friday morning.

Since the summer season opened at Kingston Point Park it has been the custom of automobilists to use the Strand, North street and Delaware avenue leading to the park as a speedway with an utter disregard of the rights of pedestrians.

There is no sidewalk on Delaware avenue from North street to Kingston Point and pedestrians are forced to use the road. There have been a number of narrow escapes from serious accidents due to the reckless driving of certain automobilists.

Paul Schlot of Lawrence, Mass., was arrested this morning by Officer Robert Healey on a charge of driving on the left side of a trolley car at Broadway and Spring street. He gave bail for his appearance in police court on Friday.

ODDS AND ENDS.

A gray horse was found roaming the streets uptown this morning and placed in Pule's livery on Broadway.

A hammock was picked up on Broadway and left at police headquarters, where the owner may obtain it.

J. A. Flynn, Cedar street, has been awarded the contract to do the tin work on the large new residence of John D. Van Kleeck, 148 Main street.

Friday evening from 5 to 10 o'clock the mortgage committee of the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church will serve another of their popular suppers at the church.

There will be plenty of fried chicken, potatoes and roast beef with sweet potatoes and other dishes that go to make the most particular epicure satisfied.

Social at Krippelbush.

A Sunday school social will be held on the church grounds at Krippelbush Saturday afternoon and evening, August 27. Games and races in the afternoon. Supper at 5 o'clock for members of the Sunday school only. Ice cream and refreshments for sale. All are invited.

Bible Talk Sundays.

Sunday afternoon, August 28, at 3 o'clock, F. W. Franz will be the speaker at the monthly free talk at Mechanics' Hall, Henry street. His theme will be "What is the Human Soul." These Bible talks are largely attended, seats being free and no collection being taken.

Obtains Position.

Miss Stella McAniff, an honor graduate of Spencer's Business School, has been placed in a desirable position as stenographer and typist with the Kingston Gas & Electric Company, 611 Broadway, this city.

Moscow Has Big Fire.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Helsinki, Aug. 25.—Twenty persons are dead and several hundred buildings destroyed as the result of fires which swept three sections of Moscow, said a despatch from Petrograd today.

Cohen Reappointed.

Deputy Sheriff William Cohen has received notice of his appointment as a Federal prohibition enforcement officer from the treasury department at Washington.

Dance At Kingston Point.

On August 29th a big monster and dance will be held at Kingston Point Casino. Kingston talent will render some of the big hits of the season. Balfe's orchestra of eight pieces will furnish the music. This orchestra will go to Woodstock tonight and to Stone Ridge Grange tomorrow night.

FEDERAL TROOPS TO WEST VIRGINIA

Governor Morgan Requests That They Be Sent and President Harding is Considering The Matter.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, Aug. 25.—President Harding is now considering the question of sending United States troops into West Virginia as the result of a request from Governor Morgan of that state, it was announced at the war department this afternoon.

Governor Morgan declared that armed bands are forming throughout West Virginia, that they are moving on Charleston and "armed insurrection" threatens.

The president today conferred on the situation with acting Secretary of War Wainwright and Major General Harbord, chief of staff.

Major General Harbord has ordered Brigadier General H. H. Bandholz and Colonel Stanley H. Ford to West Virginia by aeroplane, at once to render a report on the advisability of the despatching of federal troops to maintain peace. The action of the president will be withheld pending receipt of a report from General Bandholz, which probably will be received tonight.

SINN FEIN SENDS ITS REJECTION

De Valera's Envoys To Deliver It To Lloyd George Friday Morning—It Asks What Else He Has To Offer.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Dublin, Aug. 25.—The Sinn Fein's formal reply to the English peace offer, which is understood to be a rejection of Premier Lloyd-George's proposals, was taken to London today. It will be delivered by the Sinn Fein envoys at 10 Downing street Friday morning.

It is understood that the answer states that Dail Eireann (the Sinn Fein parliament), gave full endorsement to the decision of the Irish Republican cabinet to refuse the English terms.

The document was said to interrogate Premier Lloyd-George whether he is prepared to negotiate further with Ireland upon the basis of the latter country being self governing through the consent of the governed.

SINN FEIN BIDS ARMY BE READY

By Telegram to The Freeman. Dublin, Aug. 25.—A general order calling upon all Sinn Fein soldiers to hold themselves in readiness for active service in the field at any moment was read to all ranks and units of the Irish Republican army today.

"No such necessity may arise," said the general order, but it is the duty of the defenders of the Irish Republic not to relax their vigilance and to leave nothing to chance. This situation is thoroughly appreciated by the fighting men of Ireland. What ever contingencies arise they will act in a manner worthy of the glorious traditions of the republican army. The morale of the Sinn Fein volunteers was never higher than it is today."

Dail Eireann (the Sinn Fein parliament) was scheduled to resume its secret sessions today for consideration of Eamonn de Valera's reply to the English peace proposals.

SEEK CAUSE OF HOBOKEN FIRE

Soldier Dead Safely Removed From Burning Piers But Leviathan Is Badly Scorching—One Suspected of Incendiarism Held.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Hoboken, N. J., Aug. 25.—A military board of inquiry was to meet here today to determine the cause of the $5,000,000 fire that last night destroyed piers five and six, military headquarters and several smaller buildings. The bodies of 4,700 soldier dead, brought home from France, were saved by the valiant efforts of troops stationed at the piers aided by Hoboken citizens. The giant steamer Leviathan, formerly the Vaterland, was saved from destruction, although her superstructure was burned and her sides badly scorched.

The fire was discovered on the middle of Pier Five early last evening. It spread through the wooden pier quickly and the whole waterfront seemed a raging mass of flames within a few minutes. The fire continued to spread until about 10 o'clock when it was finally brought under control. Firemen from Hoboken, Jersey City and New York worked until nearly dawn today, however, before the blaze was completely mastered.

Nothing was known early today of the cause of the blaze. Military officers inclined to the belief that it was caused by crossed electric wires.

A man who gave his name as Alben Kraemer was taken into custody at the scene of the blaze early today. Detectives thought his actions were suspicious. He declared he was attracted to the scene simply by curiosity. He said he was in Passaic when the fire started last night.

Fifteen hundred bodies of the soldier dead were on pier four which was badly damaged. When it became apparent that the blaze was going to reach that pier, troops were at once rushed there to move the bodies to safety. The weight of the caskets made the task of moving the bodies a hard one and it was feared the soldiers would not be able to accomplish it in time. Officers directing the directing the work appealed to the crowd that had been attracted by the fire to help. Hundreds volunteered immediately and the caskets were all moved to a place of safety before the flames could reach them.

A score of tug boats were called out to move the Leviathan out into the river but as it was low tide the giant liner was beached on the river bottom and could not be budged. A fire boat, then squeezed its way between the burning pier and the Leviathan and kept steady streams of water pouring onto the sides of the liner. Officials declared today that this "water screen" had saved the Leviathan from heavy damage.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story
Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

Jim learned from Dean's housekeeper that the richest woman in the village needed a man to do odd jobs around the house. He presented himself at her back door early the next morning.

Elsie the maid opened the door and greeted Jim cordially. "Miss Billings needs a man, and I need one too," she stated coyly. "This is the dearest place. I haven't spoken to a real gentleman in months."

"Indeed!" Jim looked at her sharply. She was pretty and keen. She was a flirt and Jim knew it. He was very nearly tempted to drop the job and run, but work came first, and he followed her into the kitchen determined to stick it out for two days.

"There are so many things you can do," Elsie was saying. "There are rugs that will keep you busy a week, the grass needs cutting."

"If Miss Billings—"
"Oh, I'll take you to her. What is your hurry?"
"I want to get work."

"You're the first man I ever saw who was in such a mad haste to work."

"Your knowledge of men is quite limited, isn't it, Miss Wymen?"

"Kiss—to you," as she led him into the maid's sitting room where he met Miss Billings, who suggested that he start cleaning the rugs at once.

"I don't believe in vacuum cleaners," she said primly. "They pull out the nap and ruin the carpets."

"Have you ever used one?"

"No, I don't need to. Now don't argue, James. I dislike arguments. How long will it take to clean the rugs?"

"Just two days," Jim was thinking of the stipulation in his uncle's will, that he secure a new job every two days.

"Very well, I will have something else ready for you to do, the day after tomorrow."

After she had left, Elsie turned to him smilingly. "You might have told her it would take a week. At this rate, you'll be through all the jobs in no time, and when you are finished she will kick you out."

"I don't want pay for what I don't do," returned Jim curtly.
For two days he beat the carpets, wondering as he did, what good all the muscular exercise was doing. It raised a constant cloud of dust which fell again somewhere on the carpet.

Elsie came frequently out in the yard to watch him, but when he saw her approach he beat all the harder. The dust got in her eyes and down her throat, and though she begged him to cease and chat with her for a while, he shook his head and held up two fingers to denote two days.

Later he came across her, holding a tete-a-tete with the chauffeur, very confidently telling him that the new man wasn't a gentleman at all. She was so glad he was.

First class narrow automobile roads are now replacing the old foot paths in Japan.

An odd ceremony marked the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Nouse, San Francisco artists. The bride, having taken up the customs of the Chinese, was married in the Buddhist Church, which she had attended during the last eighteen months. After the Asiatic ceremony the couple were married by a Methodist minister.

POLICE LEARN STRANGER'S NAME

Never Work By Chief of Police
Wood In Case of Man With Lost Memory Results in Learning His Name.

James F. Bennett is the name of the stranger suffering from loss of memory as told elsewhere in The Freeman this evening. This fact was brought to light by the clever work of Chief of Police J. Allan Wood who questioned the stranger at length. From the chief's questions the stranger recollected that he and his wife had been in Kingston the latter part of May of this year and that they stopped at a hotel here.

Chief Wood had the stranger write several names on a piece of paper so as to get a sample of his handwriting and then visited the hotel where the stranger said he stopped and he and his wife had spent the night.

Looking over the register the name of James F. Bennett of Syracuse was found and the writing corresponded with the samples furnished the chief by the man with the lost memory. By visiting the hotel the man was able to remember which room he and his wife had spent the night in.

Having established the man's name and that he had registered from Syracuse Chief Wood is of the opinion that the man lives either in Syracuse or the immediate vicinity, and this afternoon he telegraphed a description of the man and the name of Bennett to the Syracuse authorities telling them of the facts and asking them to investigate and report as promptly as possible.

In the meantime Chief Wood will make arrangements to care for the man with the lost memory until word is received from Syracuse.

TO DEDICATE CHURCH.

The Ceremony of Re-Dedicating St. Augustine's Church Sunday.

The Rev. Dean John J. Hickey will preach the sermon at the re-dedication of St. Augustine's Church at Highland next Sunday morning. The Rev. Thomas Pendergast of Milton is pastor of the church and under his administration the church building has been greatly enlarged. The work has grown and prospered to such an extent that the congregation has grown rapidly making it necessary to enlarge the edifice. The ceremonies will take place at 11 o'clock and there will be a large attendance of visiting clergy.

WILL BARE EARS

Milady Must Lift the Puffs to Be in Fashion.

Little Ringlets Are Pinned On Side of the Head Far Above the Ears.

Some might call it legitimizing the modesty. But it really is only fashion's latest edict. You see, notes a Chicago fashion writer, it's the way of those who make the styles. They go from one extreme to the other.

When a well-known "movie" star came out with her hair bobbed it was a world of ladies thinking. They liked the effect, but they didn't like to part with their long tresses. So hairdressers thought of the side pieces—the earmuffs—the things which men have ever since been complaining about and femininity, satisfied with the deception, with one accord wore their hair in a large mop over their ears.

And so the style remained for two years or more. Then, six months ago, it was announced that no more would the ear remain the mystery—it was to be bared for all the world to see. The modest ladies demurred. Bare her ankles or her knees, wear very little, hold up by straps over the shoulders—but show her ears? Never!

But the hairdressers insisted. So they compromised. And now an official of the Chicago Hairdressing academy, comes out with the announcement that the ear must be shown, but she will lift the mop of hair that Americans seem to love—they may have it, but they must fit it—and the madame curls it in little ringlets and pins them on the side of the head far above the ears.

The entire ear or just the lobe of it may be shown, according to the contour of the face, but certain it is that the ear must no longer be concealed.

GRAY TAILORED SUIT CRAZE

One-Button Jacket Style, Snug-Fitting Coat Sleeves, Small Collar, Revers to Waistline.

There is at present a craze in Paris which amounts almost to a madness. It is for a gray tailored suit, one-button jacket style, snug-fitting coat sleeves, small collar and revers to the waistline, where the one button is placed in link form. There is a slight side flare to the coat, and it is about three-quarters fitting. These suits have appeared in such numbers on the street of Paris that the smart woman looks as if she had gone into uniform.

This suit has all the finish and neatness of a high-priced man-tailored suit. After having worn the dress for so many seasons this mannish tailored suit comes as a distinct novelty with the chic Parisienne.

The tailor who has made a phenomenal success of a very simple costume, is so busy taking orders that he stands in the middle of his reception room taking measurements as fast as he can, the women practically standing in line, each awaiting her turn.

NOVEL AND MODISH BLOUSE

Of white and nile green is this novel and modish flambeau blouse. The sash is looped at the side in an unusual and attractive manner. It is artistic and should please the conservative dresser.

RIGHT SORT OF ACCESSORIES

Delvety Collar and Cuff Sets, Bright Sash or Perky Bow Will Do Wonders.

"She had on the smartest little waistcoat," said a woman the other day in discussing the appearance of a friend she met during a morning's shopping, and she couldn't recall a thing about the suit with which the waistcoat was worn, except that it was "just a little plain dark suit of some sort." All of which helps to prove that accessories deserve all the prominence they have ever been accorded in the scheme of things sartorial.

A smart, exquisitely clean and dainty collar and cuff set may transform a suit or frock several seasons old into something quite up to the minute in style. And there is almost no limit to what may be done with a simple suit or frock of nondescript color and design in the way of transforming it into a swapper sports costume. If the right sort of accessories are chosen. A bright sash, a correct tie or a perky bow will do wonders.

Take Note of the Beautiful.

Love of the beautiful is a good source of happiness. It is, therefore, well to have a keen perception of beauty and to take an interest in everything that is good and beautiful.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 25, 1921.

While the subject of economy is not a popular topic it is becoming more and more absorbing as time goes along. Some seemed to forget that there was any such thing in the world, but now they are convinced that there was. It pays to take notice now and then.

Representative of the W. C. T. U. will undoubtedly stop denying its plan to abolish tobacco now that its national president in the convention at San Francisco has issued a formal call for a million workers to aid in the anti-tobacco educational program for the youth of America.

When a governor of Massachusetts has to her citizens to be calm and temperate to be called out to prevent the lynching of three negroes for what the Southerners euphemistically describe as "the usual crime," it may be asserted without fear of contradiction that mob lawlessness and crime are on the increase.

Education is as essential if we are to progress as food if we are to live. If we are to advance we should have the right kind of education and if we are to live we must have the right kind of food. One is as necessary as the other. But we should have education that eliminates fads and develops common sense. The worst of it is fads flourish in any soil.

The people of New York are fortunate in having a Republican at the head of the national administration and a Republican at the head of the state government. The work that is under way to reestablish normal conditions needs men of ability at the head. Without able men to guide and direct we would never get of our feet again. Gradually, however, under Republican auspices we are getting back to earth once more.

Bernard Shaw declines to come to America because he does not want to "go to prison with Debs" or take his wife to Texas "where the Ku Klux Klan snatches white women out of hotel verandas and tars and feathers them." Which reminds us that greater Englishmen than Shaw, even those with too much gray matter to occupy the role of parlor socialists, have feared that if they should come to America they would be tomahawked by war-whopping Indians on Broadway.

A NEW HOUSE OF CONGRESS.

The Constitution provides for one upper and one lower chamber of Congress, but in his indignant protest Senator Reed declares we now have "three bodies" of the Federal legislature, "one the House, another the Senate and the other the Anti-Saloon League." According to report from other sources, this third legislative body is more than equal and co-ordinate with the two old chambers, for it can act as a generally overlooking body, curbing or driving, dictating, controlling. If the half of this is true, it is not to be wondered at that Senator Reed is old fashioned enough to be jealous for the prerogatives of the two old chambers provided by the Constitution and to regard the new legislative body as a usurper.

The New York World supports the contention of Senator Reed with the following statement revealing a truly extraordinary situation: "The war-time prohibition law was not drafted by any member or committee of Congress. It was framed by the paid attorneys and enacted under the whip of the paid lobby of the Anti-Saloon League. The 15th amendment was framed by the paid attorneys of the Anti-Saloon League and enacted into law by the paid lobbyists of the Anti-Saloon League. The so-called anti-bill also was framed by the paid attorneys of the Anti-Saloon League. After the bill reached the Senate, while the conference committee was in session, it is charged that Wayne B. Wheeler, attorney of the Anti-Saloon League, was allowed to be present, although Representatives and Senators themselves are not permitted at meetings of a conference committee of which they are not members."

What do you know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions or general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper. Look for answers in this column.

1. How can flies be driven from an inadequately screened room, when there is no control of the source?
 2. Do birds have a second breeding season after reaching southern quarters in winter?
 3. I would like to know what it is that makes the light in the lightning bug?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes

Answers to Previous Questions.
 1. Will spraying stop apple scab? It will neutralize fungus spores that cause the disease wherever the spray touches. Many people do not realize that the fungus first forms on dead terminal twigs, spreading from them to young leaves, and thence on to fruit. Cut out and burn all dead twigs, thus reducing the breeding place of the fungus spores.

2. What is the common little dusky white butterfly with black spots on the wings?
 It is the adult form of the cabbage worm imported from Europe on passenger ships as early as 1850. It probably began in Quebec, but other importations brought it to various Atlantic coast points, from which it spread. In less than 25 years it had covered the country almost entirely as far as the Great Plains, and soon crossed the Rockies. The worm bores into cabbage heads.

3. Will burying clothes scented with skunk spray take out the odor? Usually not permanently, because it is not practicable to leave them buried long enough, for fear of mildew or rotting. The smell comes back when the cloth is exposed to heat. Chloride of lime will help, but it is likely to take out the cloth along with the odor. Prolonged airing is the best hope.

 New York City.

My dear Mr. Rachmaninoff:

Under a contract between yourself and Thomas A. Edison, Inc., dated the 24th of April, 1919, it is provided, in effect, that the royalties payable to you, on various selections, which you have recorded for us, shall continue, only so long as you do not make phonographic recordings of such selections for anyone else.

I shall be very glad to give you permission to record these selections for others, without the loss of royalties under the aforesaid agreement. This will give you the opportunity to record your "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" and other important works, which you have already recorded for us.

Yours very truly,

Thomas A. Edison

READ Mr. Edison's letter to Rachmaninoff, the famous Russian pianist. In reality, it is an invitation to talking-machine manufacturers to record Rachmaninoff in the selections that he has recorded for the New Edison.

We fear that they will not dare this deadly parallel,—but, since Rachmaninoff has recorded other selections for talking-machines, you can draw your own parallels. Simply come here and

Hear Rachmaninoff on the NEW EDISON

You will hear Rachmaninoff exactly as he plays. Then listen to him as he sounds on a talking-machine.

The New Edison is so different from all talking-machines that Mr. Edison has offered $25 cash prizes, totaling $10,000, for phrases that will best distinguish the New Edison from talking-machines. Ask for folder, giving full particulars.

If you do not own a New Edison, fill out and mail, enclosing the coupon and we will loan you an instrument on three days free trial. Having a New Edison will give you ideas for phrases to submit in the contest. Act quickly—contest closes September 2nd.

PESKY BED BUGS

Bedbugs lay an average of seven eggs per day. Under favorable conditions they hatch in five days of which two-thirds are females. They mature to adult size and are capable of laying in four weeks. How many bedbugs would you have in a year if you left one female or egg unmolested for one year? To rid the pesky bedbug, you can readily see how necessary it is to use a preparation that will kill the eggs as well as the live ones. P. D. Q. has been demonstrated by the leading Hotels, Hospitals and Railroad Companies that the safest and most economical way to stop future generations of bedbugs, roaches, fleas and ants is by using the new discovery "Pesky Devils" peddled.

Quietus "P. D. Q." A 35c package of P. D. Q. makes a quart, enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, fleas and cockroaches and at the same time destroy their eggs. Impossible for them to exist when P. D. Q. is properly used. Free, natural spout in every package to get the pesky devils in the hard-to-get-at places and save the juice. Special Hospital and Hotel size $2.50 each. Makes five gallons of P. D. Q.—your druggist has it or can get it for you, or send for it. It is the recent of price by the Owl Chemical Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Success of P. D. Q. has caused of bedbugs, roaches, fleas and ants is limited; genuine P. D. Q. is never to use the new discovery "Pesky Devils" peddled.

JANSEN FINDS NEW RYE SERUM

President of Farm Bureau Found
Treating Apple Trees From Which
Will be Gathered Fruit for Cider
at Farm Bureau Picnic.

A very active gentleman armed with a syringe with the sharp pointed nozzle of which he was puncturing the bark of a tree and carefully injecting a small amount of some liquid. The face of the busy man looked like this:

That is what a Freeman reporter who visited the farm of A. E. Jansen, president of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, at New Paltz late yesterday afternoon, found. Here was probably the mystery hinted at by E. W. Hathaway, who had been interviewed by the same reporter earlier in the day.

"Wait a minute," said Mr. Jansen when the reporter began to ask what he was doing. "I have only two more trees to treat and then I will, explain." After going through the process on the two remaining trees, which the reporter observed each bore a heavy crop of nearly ripe apples, Mr. Jansen carefully laid aside the syringe and was ready to talk.

"Hathaway ought not to have given you a hint to come here," he said, "for I intended to hold this as a surprise for our picnic in Forsyth Park next Wednesday. You know I am at the head of the Department of Cider Apples and these are the apples for use in making cider at the picnic."

"So long as you have caught me in the act, I might as well tell you that the syringe contained a newly discovered serum, made from rye. I share in Mr. Hathaway's contempt for the crudity of Millard Davis's grafting and budding. That is an antiquity. Inoculation with serum is the latest and best way to do things. And talk about 'pep' in hot dogs! What do you suppose will be in the cider made from apples that grow on these apple trees that have been inoculated with rye serum? It's the greatest scientific discovery of the age and timely, oh so timely."

"As to cider mixing well with other drinks at the picnic—well, just you be there and try it. Mix some milk with this cider from apples off rye serum treated trees and what will it naturally be? You ought to know the answer. Here is an apple from one of the treated trees. Just bite into it where it has been bruised a little and see what you think of it."

The reporter bit—and came away wondering how William H. Anderson would like a few barrels of such apples.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Junius

Three Cent Stamps.

The government is planning to boost the price of postage stamps for ordinary letters to three cents, and so home that it does. There is altogether too much letter writing in this world, and if another cent will have a deterrent effect it will relieve us just that much.

Most of the letters are rather painful. They beg to state, they enclose herewith, they urge us to find enclosed, or warn us that they are sending under separate cover. They beg to acknowledge or regret to inform; they take pleasure in quoting, they trust that we have received in good order this thing or that. They are as alike as a dime's worth of gum drops.

Far be it from us to tell the government its business, but the method of selling stamps has been all wrong. Let the recipient, and not the sender pay the postage. Each morning when the postman brings you, say a half dozen envelopes, sealed but without stamps. You look through 'em. Some you reject, of course, and on these the government would sustain the loss, but on others you are willing to pay quite a tariff. Like this:

For single men, letter from girl $4.00
Married men, letter from wife01
Letter selling oil stock60
Letter enclosing check50
Letter with stock dividends60
Letter notifying one of assess-00

ment00
Wedding announcements00
Dinner invitations65
Fishing invitations90
Invitation to help in drive00

This gives a sketchy outline, but you can get the drift. Perhaps too, if attractive young women carried the mails, and were persuasive enough even higher prices could be had.

We believe that higher postage would materially cut down the number of post cards one gets from various resorts and summer vacationists. "If my friend sends me a picture postcard, I know I am on his conscience, but not on his heart." You know the kind of postcards everybody gets. Things like this:

"Having grand time; wish you were here."
"Lovely people at this lake; wish you were here."

"Lovely bathing and wonderful beach; wish you were here."

"This is a view from our cottage; wish you were here."

"Dancing pavilion, lovely dances, every evening; wish you were here."
"Picture of four pounder. Bob caught; lots of fish at this lake; wish you were here."

"The bunch in our bathing suits; wish you were here."

"Here is a picture of the lake in a storm; wish you were here."

"Wish you were here."

These are fairish samples of the average postcard. One appreciates such little attentions. Yet equally of course one could live for several days, weeks, even, without them. A great many are sent for a penny. Few would be sent for two cents. One has few friends who think that much of one.

Years ago we invented the typewriting machine. It was hailed as considerable wheeze. Before that time business men had been wont to write two or three letters a day by long hand. It took an hour or more. "Now," say they, "with the typewriting machine we can do this work in ten minutes."

But they didn't. They wrote more and more letters, and finally needed help, and the professional stenographer came into existence. Still the craze for letter writing grew, and Mr. Edison, ever alert, invented a thing that you talk into, called a dictaphone, so that a business man might sit up all hours of the night dictating letters for the stenographer next day.

And that wasn't enough. Machines were invented for turning out letters with wonderful rapidity—hundreds every minute, thousands every hour. A machine was invented so that a man could sign his name 300 times with one stroke of the pen.

What do all these millions of letters talk about? Oh, everything. The sale of merchandise, the state of the weather, of the market, of golf, of one's soul. No subject is overlooked, none is slighted. In starting three cent postage the government is on the right track. It will not raise the revenues, but it will lessen the accumulation of daily mail, and give a little time to attend to business. But three cents is not enough. Ten cents would be vastly better.

COWS lose weight and give less milk when they have to expend a lot of time and energy fighting flies. Crude carbolic acid or cresote fly-chasers have been practically the only available animal sprays. They chase flies. But they generally stain and mat the hair. They often cause blisters. They are poisonous.

Our Iron-Clad Guarantee

Morgan's Sure Death Fly and Insect Destroyer is a preparation of clear, non-poisonous, non-irritating insecticide oils. It knocks dead every fly that it hits. It can be used immediately before milking without danger of tainting the milk, without smothering the milkers or making cows cough. It keeps cows quiet and makes milking quicker and easier. It won't stain the whitest cow, mat the hair or cause blisters. Used night and morning it keeps cows protected from flies and gnats—enables them to produce from 20 to 25 per cent more milk. Meat and work animals that are sprayed with Morgan's Sure Death stay in good condition and gain flesh.

Buy it from Your Local Dealer

More than a thousand feed and grain stores, hardware stores, drug stores and general stores in New York state alone can supply this different and improved spray. It has been used with entire satisfaction by many owners of pure breeds and by leading dairy men for years.

We are listing in this advertisement the names of progressive dealers who are prepared to supply you promptly with Morgan's Sure Death. Look up the nearest dealer and buy from him. He will sell you a full gallon and a first-class hand spray for $2.25, or a gallon without the hand spray for $1.50.

LUCY'S VISITORS.

The Tonsil Twins had been taken away from Lucy's throat and no longer did they make their home there and give the horrible parties they had been giving for so long a time.

They had given small parties and big parties and the Adenoid cousins had been at the parties and so very often had Susy Sore Throat and Ronald Raw Throat and Carrie Cold and Clarence Cough.

"Gave Him Chick-on Broth." But these parties would not be given any more.

And Lucy was very happy. Susy Sore Throat was taking a day or so about leaving. She knew she had to go, but it took her a little time to pack up her bag of horrible mean little belongings.

A most attractive little toy wood bunny came. His ears could be moved up and down and a most regful look he would have when one ear was up and the other down.

Lucy gave him chicken broth and he was extremely pleased.

If he had not been afraid his wooden face would have cracked he would surely have smiled. For it was pleasant indeed when one was only a little wooden bunny rabbit to be given chicken broth.

It was most superior chicken broth, too. Oh, yes, for it had been made for Lucy and was made so as to give her lots of extra strength.

Besides the toy bunny a rag doll came to see Lucy. Yes, a very lovely sweet rag doll came to visit her.

She wore a little knitted hood on her head and a little sweater and a knitted scarf to keep her warm.

And she had a pair of warm knitted shoes. She wore her outside jacket too over her sweater, and she took along her little apron, so she could wear that when she played so as not to hurt her good dress.

Oh, yes, the rag doll was going to play with Lucy and have an excellent time.

Then many members of the game family came to call on Lucy. They, too, came ready for play. Yes, there is nothing in the world that a game is more ready for than a good play. Then people came to see Lucy, too, and congratulate her on the fact that the Tonsil Twins and Adenoid Cousins had left.

A lovely gray felt bunny and a brown felt monkey always were with Lucy. They had always belonged to her and, though new visitors came, they did not leave her. The monkey put his arm around the bunny and with his other arm on the pillow by Lucy he looked most comfortable.

He hadn't left her when she had gone to have the Tonsil Twins out. He had been such a comfort. Of course, when they were actually to be taken out he had to stay behind, but he was with her just as long as he could be and he joined her again as soon as he could.

"Well," he was saying to the gray rabbit, "I'm laughing up my sleeve."

"How can you do that?" asked the rabbit. "You haven't any sleeve and you aren't laughing up your arm. You're not even turning your mouth in that direction."

"What do you mean by saying that?"

"Oh, it is just an expression," said the monkey. "When creatures say they're laughing up their sleeve it does not really mean that they're holding open their sleeve and saying:

"Ha, ha, ha, up it. But it means they're laughing inwardly or to themselves or so no one can see their laughter. That is what the expression means."

"So, you see no one can see my laughter, but I'm laughing all right at the good joke played on those wretched Tonsil Twins!"

Just then there came another visitor. This time it was the prince of desserts—Prince Ice Cream. Proudly the prince came in on the best and most royal of saucers and just at that moment Susy Sore Throat left for good and all.

Good Sense, Too.

"Is it possible to have five consecutive 'ands' in one sentence?"

Yes! A man in a country town had his inn redecorated. The sign was painted thus: "The Pig-and-Whistle." When he saw the newly painted sign the landlord said:

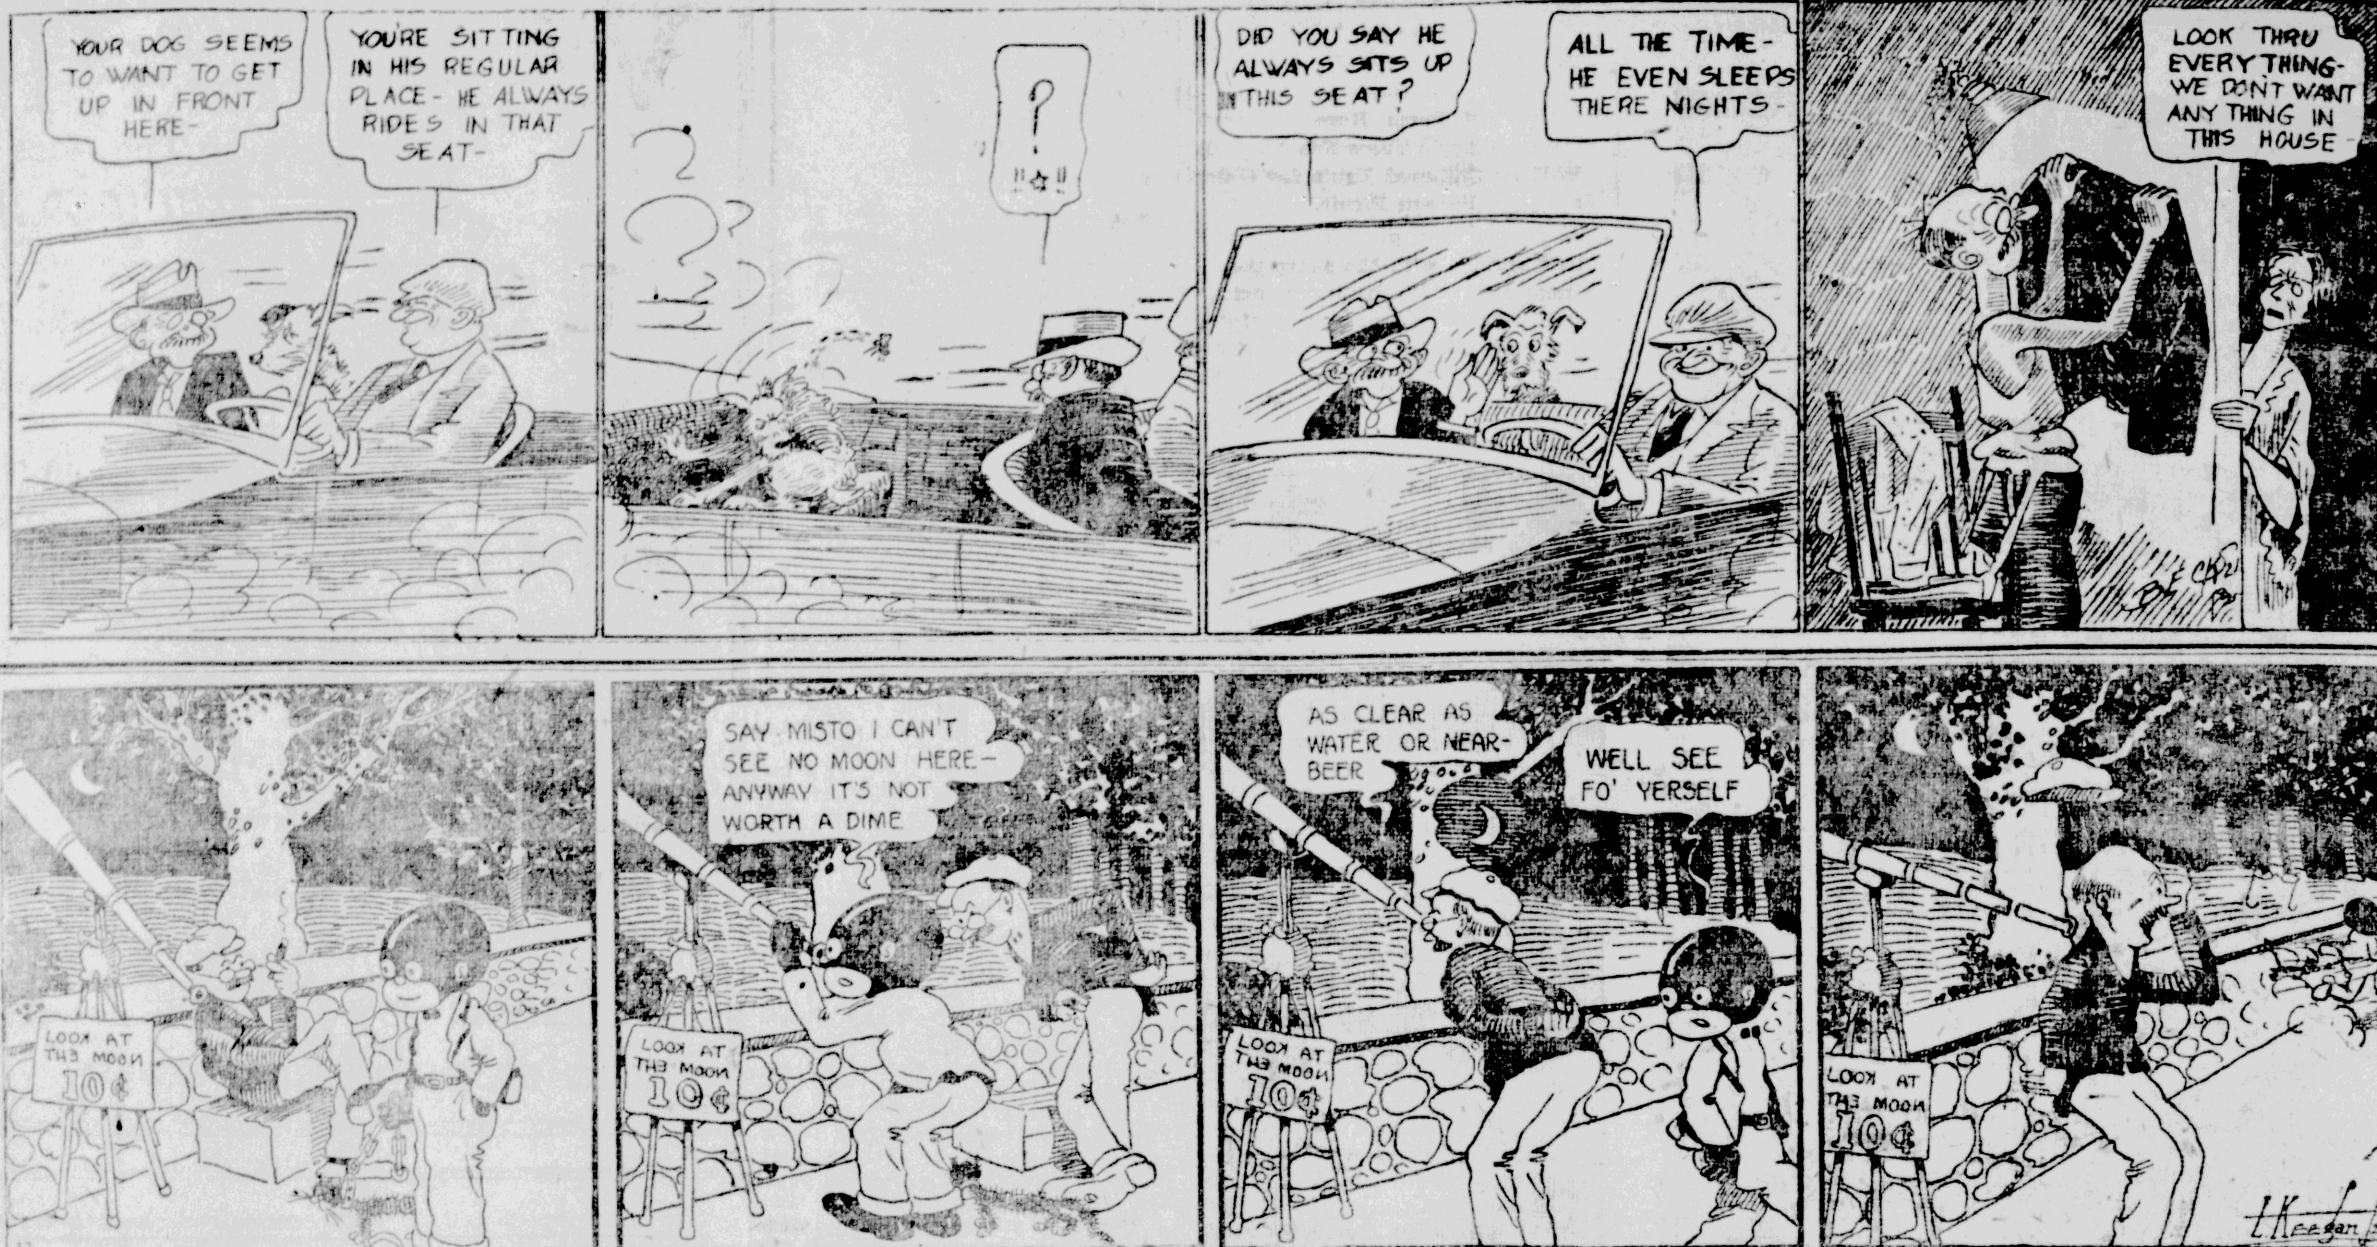

"It won't do. I want more space between Pig and and and and and Whistle."

GAS BUGGIES—Things to worry about

The KITCHEN CABINET

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Justice is itself the great standing policy of civil society, and any departure from it, under the circumstances, lies under suspicion of being no policy at all.—Burke.

SUMMERY DISHES.

During the hot weather hearty dishes and heavy desserts are not desirable. The appetite craves fruits, vegetables and refreshing drinks.

Eggs With Piquant Sauce.—Chop one green pepper, one teaspoonful of capers, one small pickled onion, one pickle and a sprig of parsley. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, add a tablespoonful of boiling water; add to this the juice of half a lemon, a pinch of salt, a dusting of flour, then the chopped mixture. Serve this sauce over hard-cooked eggs cut in quarters.

Baked Beets.—Beets retain their color and delicate flavor best when baked. Put well-washed beets into a baking dish with a small amount of water. Turn frequently with a knife to avoid losing the juices, and when done remove the peeling and slice; serve with olive oil or butter, salt and pepper.

Chili Con Carni.—This dish may not appeal to some during the hot weather, but as the southern people need peppery hot dishes to keep them ambitious, the northern section during the heated term may find such foods palatable. Take a pound of round steak and one-quarter of a pound of fresh pork, put through the meat grinder, and add three good-sized onions chopped. Brown in a hot frying pan or kettle, add one quart of tomato, chili powder to taste and a chili pepper tied in a cloth to keep the seeds from mixing into the dish. Season with salt and cayenne, if needed, making it as hot as the taste demands. Just a short time before serving time add two cans of kidney beans or their equivalent in cooked beans. When hot, serve. This dish, with a crisp green salad like lettuce, will make a substantial main dish.

Ripe Cucumber Relish.—Grate ripe cucumber, squeeze dry, add salt to taste, one finely chopped onion for each cupful of cucumber, one finely minced red pepper, cayenne pepper to season highly and vinegar to make a thick mixture. Bottle and seal. This is a fine sauce for fish.

Nellie Maxwell

How Tastes Differ.

That we do not eat as heartily as we did a few centuries ago, is proved by reading old menus. In the Fifteenth century, and in England and continental Europe, such meats as crane, heron, peacock, seal, swan, porpoise and whale were, if not everyday dishes, at least common in their appearance on the tables of men, and by the prosperous and rich it was not considered a great extravagance to serve the tongues of larks and peacocks. It is a curious thing, or at least it must seem curious to some that the Tuscans, while rejecting mutton as food, will eat heartily of hedgehog. They may have flocks of sheep, but they do not eat them. They will eat the flesh of their herds of cattle, but they prefer, it is said, the flesh of oxen that have worked hard.

Perfectly True.

"I thought you told me you had a pretty accurate idea of who was going to be elected." "So I had, I knew it was not going to be any of the people who had not been nominated."

Stories of Great Scouts

By Elmo Scott Watson

(© Western Newspaper Union.)

"BUFFALO CHIP" JIM WANTED TO BE LIKE BUFFALO BILL.

Plain Jim White was his name, but along the whole western frontier he was known as "Buffalo Chip" Jim, a name which he carried to his grave. He had been a boyhood friend of Buffalo Bill, and when Cody became an Indian scout, White also took up that occupation. For years he was Buffalo Bill's faithful follower—half-servant, half-partner. He copied Buffalo Bill's dress, his speech and the way he walked. He let his hair grow long in imitation of Cody. He was always at the famous scout's side, and took more care of Buffalo Bill's guns and horses than he did of his own.

Two stories of how he got his name are told. One is this: General Sheridan had arrived at Fort Wallace, Kan., and was seeking Buffalo Bill to guide him on a buffalo hunt. White appeared and told the general that Cody was away.

"But when Mr. Cody is away, I'm Buffalo Bill," declared White. "The h—i you are!" said "Little Phil" with contempt. "Buffalo chips, you mean!" And the general stamped away angrily.

According to the other version of White's christening, one night at Fort Laramie he claimed the right to be known by some other name than simple Jim White, something descriptive of his close friendship for Buffalo Bill. "All right," said Major Morton of the Ninth infantry, "We'll call you 'Buffalo Chips'!"

White was with the Fifth cavalry when it attacked Chief American Horse's camp at Slim Buttes, S. D., in the autumn of 1876. After the defeat of the Indians, the soldiers began hunting down little parties of Sioux hidden in the gulches and ravines near the edge of a cliff. He had rushed himself to his feet and was ready to fire at a warrior down in the ravine when a shot rang out.

White sprang in the air, clutched his hands to his breast and with the startled cry of "Oh, my God, boys, they've got me!" he plunged forward down the slope, shot through the heart.

"A simpler-minded, gentler frontiersman never lived. He was modest and courteous itself, and he had three unusual traits for men of his class—he never drank; I never heard him swear, and no man ever heard him lie," writes Gen. Charles King, who knew him well and who saw him as that cold September morning at Slim Buttes.

Treasure Trove.

Eight pieces of early English tapestry, said to be worth anything from $250,000 to $500,000, were recently discovered in Gloucestershire, England, packed away in a bedroom, occupied by the butler. They bear the date 1595, and are claimed to be the most important works from the Sheldon Looms (founded by William Sheldon in the middle of the Sixteenth century) which have ever come into the market. The best-known panels are the huge maps in the Victoria and Albert museum, panels with figures and verdure being rare.

"Sir."

Like Doctor Johnson, Mr. Hazlitt addressed everybody as Sir. The youngest and most intimate of his friends was not exempt from this rule, unless Mr. Hazlitt happened to be in an unusually happy and cordial humor. Mr. C. E. Reynell's sons, whom he knew as well as his own child, were almost invariably saluted in what would now appear a ludicrously formal manner; but indeed this mode of address had not gone out then so entirely as it has in our day.—R. H. Stoddard.

MAKES NEW BED

River Indus Changes Its Course
With Regularity.

Inhabitants of Waziristan Face Perpetual Peril, as Water Constantly Moves in a New Direction.

The frequently heard news that an eastern river has changed its course with danger to property and life seems incredible until one has actually seen an active river "getting busy" on a new course, writes a correspondent from Waziristan, India.

Thus the Indus is a perpetual problem, and for this reason: All provisions must cross its broad waters, as Waziristan is on the west bank and in desert country.

Every October the river hibernates, and a bridge of boats temporarily solves the problem.

But each May it wakes up, shakes itself out of its sleep and probably out of its original course.

The bridge is hurriedly dismantled, and there ensues anxious speculation among the engineers.

Which way is the water coming?

After observations and soundings the new position of the port, quaintly called "Steamer Point," is fixed. There follows a procession of railway men, provision experts, coolies (laborers) and camels. Lines are laid, "dumps" arise and within a week the erstwhile lonely river bank is populated and becomes a "going concern."

Even then a wary eye has to be kept on the encroaching waters. Both the railway and the supply "dumps" have to be moved farther and farther back. Sometimes even in a single night the river will flow away into a new and unexpected channel; or, maybe, it will forsake a portion of its bed, leaving a yellow sandbank in its place.

The bank itself becomes jagged like a piece of bread into which a child has made large bites.

The water swirls ever inward and cracks appear ten feet within the bank; the cracks deepen, and without warning another large lump of shore crumbles away. A motor car that stopped on such a piece disappeared into the river and has not been seen since.

And some of these effects are curious.

A cluster of three palm trees, which were well away from the water last week, were little islands yesterday. This morning they had disappeared! Probably they are miles down the stream for the current is swift and gives no quarter.

You may imagine these quiet trees, torn from their native soil, turning feverishly round and round at the mercy of the sweeping current.

The floss and jetsam of life and death go eddying past on the bosom of the stream. Here a dead camel, there a bevy of jam tins catches the eye and fades away downstream.

Yet with all the turmoil and trouble the Indus has a charm of its own, and it is most fascinating to watch the work of elemental nature.

This evening, as I saw the bank collapsing bit by bit, I could not help thinking of the story of the engineer who built his bungalow a comfortable mile from the river. The next year the water was lapping at his garden gate.

And I wondered if in a year or two the river would threaten our own little homesteads away back in the distance.

Is President of Assyria.

Just as George Washington in America became known to posterity as the "Father of His Country," the first woman president of a nation may be known as the "Mother of Assyria." Lady Surma, first executive of the new Assyrian republic, practically created the nation when she obtained from England the grant of 80,000 square miles of land in the Kurdistan mountains, and this, it is said in London, may win her the unique title.

Lady Surma was ambassador to England from the Assyrians—and incidentally the first woman ambassador in the world—when she obtained the grant of the new territory from Britain. Her brother, Mar Chimon, had been patriarch of the Assyrians, and following his murder a new form of government was outlined. When the new assembly of the Assyrians was organized, the ambassador who won for the country its new territory was at once urged for its ruler.

Lady Surma was educated by British tutors and is an accomplished linguist.

Arabic Literature Recovering.

Arabic literature, writes a correspondent to the London Morning Post, is recovering from a period of depression induced by the war. Of the books published during the last month or so one of the most interesting is "Nawadir al-Harb," containing rare and interesting comments on the war—rare in the sense that every fact is narrated from the standpoint of the Oriental philosopher. The little volume closes with appropriate comments on the powers and their post-war conditions culled from the works of the classical Arabic poets. Perhaps the most amusing passage is that which is selected for Montenegro: "I have sold my house and my donkey; I have, therefore, nothing above or beneath me."

Really Clever.

"Madge is an awfully clever girl." "Why, she's a regular dummy with the men."

"That's where her cleverness comes in. She leads a man to believe that she thinks he is worth listening to."

No Room for More.

"You ought to read the newspapers and get a different opinion." "Opinion! Good Lord, man, I have three already."—Dartmouth "Jack-o-Lantern."

the Horn Squawk.

Mr. Jinks has been the proud possessor of a brand-new flivver for nearly three weeks, and his precious treasure is never far from his thoughts. Every moment he can spare is devoted to polishing its glossy coat or tinkering with its vitals in the effort to discover the cause of its occasional spells of mullish baulkiness.

The other night—about two o'clock—Mrs. Jinks was awakened by terrific yowls emitted by the family cat. Now the cat was a peaceful pussy and not at all given to nocturnal vocal demonstrations. Imagine Mrs. Jinks' astonishment when she arose and discovered her husband sitting on the edge of the bed, vigorously twisting the cat's tail round and round.

"John," she protested, rescuing her pet with some difficulty, "what on earth are you doing?"

Mr. Jinks was evidently in a somnambulistic state, for he scratched his head and responded sleepily:

"Sh! won't go, honey; sh! simply won't go. I've cranked an' cranked an' the horn squawks, an' thash all. Guess I'll have 'er sen' 'er up fer repairs. Some 'thin' 'sash be matted wizzer magnet. 'Sdarn shame, an' ain't paid fer yet, even!"—From Nuggets.

DOG RECOGNIZED ITS HOME

Even at Sea, and at Some Distance, Animal Knew Destroyer to Which It Belonged.

Except for the serial numbers painted boldly on the bow, most persons have the greatest difficulty in recognizing one of the 300 destroyers in the United States navy from another, but there is a dog aboard the destroyer Schenck No. 159 which seems in this regard to have far more than human intelligence.

This dog—of no particular breed—has been aboard the Schenck for about two years.

Officers aboard the Schenck are told in the story of how, not long ago, when the vessel went from Pensacola to Guantanamo, the dog was lost. He could not be found when the time for departure arrived, although the crew had been searching the town for him for almost two hours.

It developed that the dog, after the Schenck departed, reached another destroyer and went to sea with them.

During the voyage the two destroyers passed well out to sea. The dog was on the bridge and barked so loudly that he attracted the attention of the Schenck.

The U. S. battleship Pennsylvania, which left the Philadelphia Navy Yard with 400 Marines for duty in Panama, is now speeding toward the Canal Zone. The exact destination of the force was not made known, and officials at the Navy Yard said that not even the commanding officers knew the duty they were to perform on arrival in the Canal Zone. It is believed that the Marines will stand by when Costa Rica marches her forces into the tiny bit of territory whose ownership Panama has so earnestly and long contested.

UNLIKE THE OLD-TIME DUEL

Recent Affair of Honor in Paris Actually Appears to Have Been Carefully "Chaperoned."

Not long ago a quarrel broke out between a subprefect and the secretary general of the prefecture in a department of the west. Feeling ran so high that blows were exchanged. Exchanged? No, not quite. The word isn't quite exact. If they had really been exchanged, both the enemies might have thrown up the sponge. But there was bestowal of slaps by one of the functionaries and simple reception without return by the other. That was serious! Only blood could adequately wash the offended cheek!

They secured their witnesses, named the day and bought themselves swords. But the prefect found out about it. At first he tried to effect a reconciliation between the two foes. Vain effort! Then he tried to use his authority to forbid their fighting. Useless threat! They offered him two heroic resignations to win the right to get themselves killed.

"Well, then, have your confounded throats cut, if you want to," he cried. "But you shall assist at the combat and I'll hold you responsible for the lives of both of them," he said to the chief clerk of the prefecture. "If anybody gets hurt I shall discharge you!" The chief clerk obeyed without a murmur. He chaperoned the encounter with a huge sword in his hand, and whenever a blow seemed dangerous, he warded off the murderous weapon. In the end they made it up, and the prefect was content.—From Le Cri, Paris.

MEN SET IN "HIGH PLACES."

Those Only Admirable Who Remain Affable and Generous to Those of Lower Levels.

Speaking of the Mount Everest expedition, Sir Francis Younghusband says: "At great heights men get very nervous and irritable. At 16,000 feet they begin to lose patience with one another, and the higher they climb the deeper they hate."

There is a moral in that for men seeking high altitudes in our common human life.

May it never be said of them with truth: "The higher they climb the deeper they hate."

It is a fine thing to find a man who goes upward to great heights without losing his head, his nervous equanimity, his self-control. It is an inspiration to us who plod and drudge along at the lower levels to find him generous, amiable, affable, ready to meet all comers and faithful to his friends.

On the other hand, it is deplorable to come upon a man who wins his way to eminence of any sort, and in that lofty station, instead of looking to the sky and a superior Power, looks down upon "the common herd" and thinks—and tells—how great he is in comparison with them.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Unlucky Thirteen.

Nearly a dozen important streets in London have no houses numbered 13, evidently in deference to the popular superstition which regards that number as unlucky.

Little Miss Dorothy Thompson, the granddaughter of George Harvey U. S. Pleasure in Studying Bird Life.

The co-operation of birds and man, studied from the days of Vergil, may well become more intimate and more fruitful of results as our understanding of bird-life grows deeper. Was it not a British statesman, Viscount Grey of Falloden, who said in one of his public speeches that the appreciation and study of birds yields a pleasure "purer and more lasting than any pleasures of excitement, and, in the long run, happier than personal success?"

Ancient Surgery.

That the use of splints in the treatment of fractures was known to the rude practitioners of prehistoric America is revealed by examination of the skeleton of a young woman recently exhumed in the Pueblo ruins at Aztec, N. M., says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The left forearm, badly broken in two places, was surrounded by six carefully made splints of wood, with evidence that there had been eight or nine.

Big Result From Small Idea.

A boy of seventeen attended a "splint-rapping" seance, and found that the table stood upon two brass rails running across the stage. He suspected electricity. Taking a piece of insulated wire, the ends of which were open, he laid it across the two brass rails, and the "spirit" ceased to rap. Years afterward, this early experiment in track-circuiting came to his mind, and he invented the automatic system of signaling.

White Rose COFFEE

New York's Own Drink

COFFEE to the New Yorker is a drink that either irritates or satisfies because he recognizes instantly the least falling off of strength or flavor.

Most of his life he has been a coffee drinker—New York is a coffee-drinking city—and this intensive training has made him an exacting judge of good coffee.

Our long experience in packing coffee has taught us that you cannot sell the New Yorker ordinary coffee. So we packed White Rose Coffee specially to meet New York's discriminating coffee taste.

Superstitious Bulgarians Dread Spirits of Evil.

Observe Many Odd Customs Which They Believe of Immense Importance to Their Welfare.

Are you one of those who will not walk under a ladder, raise an umbrella in the house or spill the salt without casting a few grains over your shoulder? If you believe in these or the kindred superstitions fast dying out in this country, you will feel a degree of kinship with the average Bulgarian peasant. For there are so many things a Bulgarian may not do, writes Temple Manning, in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Among the many customs of rural Bulgaria, to neglect which is considered unlucky and even sinful, are the following: To bring flour into the house and neglect to fumigate it with special incense. This must be done to drive out of the flour any demon which may have entered the sack. When the housewife or her daughter goes to the spring for water, she must not neglect to spill a little on the ground before even starting with the pail for the house. This is done to turn out any elemental spirit which has been scooped into the pail. If it isn't done the spirit may take up its abode in the house, and may even enter the body of one of the family who drinks the water.

If you are asked to sell a loaf of bread you must not part with it without first having cut or torn off a small piece from an end. The spirit that has helped you make the bread must be given a chance to fly out of the loaf and still linger in the house he loves.

Under no circumstances may you give a child a spoon to play with. I do not know just why you may not do this, but it is considered exceedingly unlucky.

Nor can I account for the belief which is common in some far farming sections of Bulgaria, that it is very unlucky to give a child under seven years of age a bath. The child may wash itself, but that is its own lookout. The mother may wash the child a little also, but not give it a bath all over at one time.

Imagination easily accounts for the prohibition against cleaning a stable, selling milk, fetching water or doing any of the many other farm duties after darkness has fallen.

But how is one to account for the Bulgarian belief that to permit a dog to sleep on the roof of a house will disturb the rest of the dead members of the family?

These and countless other superstitions rule the daily work and habits of old Bulgarians and the youths who live and work in many a shift-in section of that hilly land.

Bitter Joking.

Elmer Glyn, the novelist, was talking to a reporter about her long visit in Spain.

"The death rate for babies is fearful in Spain," she said. "If it were not for that sad fact the world would soon contain more Spaniards than Chinese; for the Spanish are a remarkably prolific race. Families of 15 and even 20 children are not uncommon among them."

"But these children die off in their infancy because their mothers are so very ignorant of hygiene. I once heard two Spanish doctors joking-joking bitterly, you know, about this maternal ignorance which does so much harm."

"Yes," said the first doctor, "Donna Pura's new baby died off, off, of course. At the age of two months she was feeding it on pork, cheese and wine."

"Pork, cheese and wine—a good diet, that, for a two-months' old baby," said the second doctor. "The 'ch' Romans, though, have a better one for their youngsters. They give it for dinner every evening a brace of chops, fried potatoes, sweet pudding and a stiff whisky and soda, with coffee, liqueur and a good strong Havana cigar to follow."

Aviation Marvel Found.

An airplane capable of landing without the aid of a large aviation field, able to rise without a long run before, able to travel more than 500 miles an hour and, if necessary, to meander along at but a few miles an hour, is announced as the invention of an Italian engineer, Epaminonda Bertone of Rome.

The inventor claims that he already tried out the machine on a small scale and regards his first experiments as indicative of the success of the invention. The new machine is primarily intended for aerial war chasing and is to be armed with a machine gun. It is a monoplane.

Remedy for Ants.

Here is a helpful paragraph in a New York paper: "To rid the pantry shelves of red ants, wipe them with denatured alcohol every few weeks." Now, how are you to catch the ant and give him that alcohol bath? The cursed little things just won't stand still.—Jackson News.

The Crowning Aggravation.

To make matters worse, when your collar is wilted; when you vacillate between a desire to commit suicide and a desire to throw up the job and wander off to some cool mountaintop to rest, in pops the coal man to say: "Buy your winter fuel now."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Drives Away Ship's Smoke.

IS GOLF REALLY IRISH GAME?

Suggestion Put Forward, With Some Evidence, by Correspondent of New York Herald.

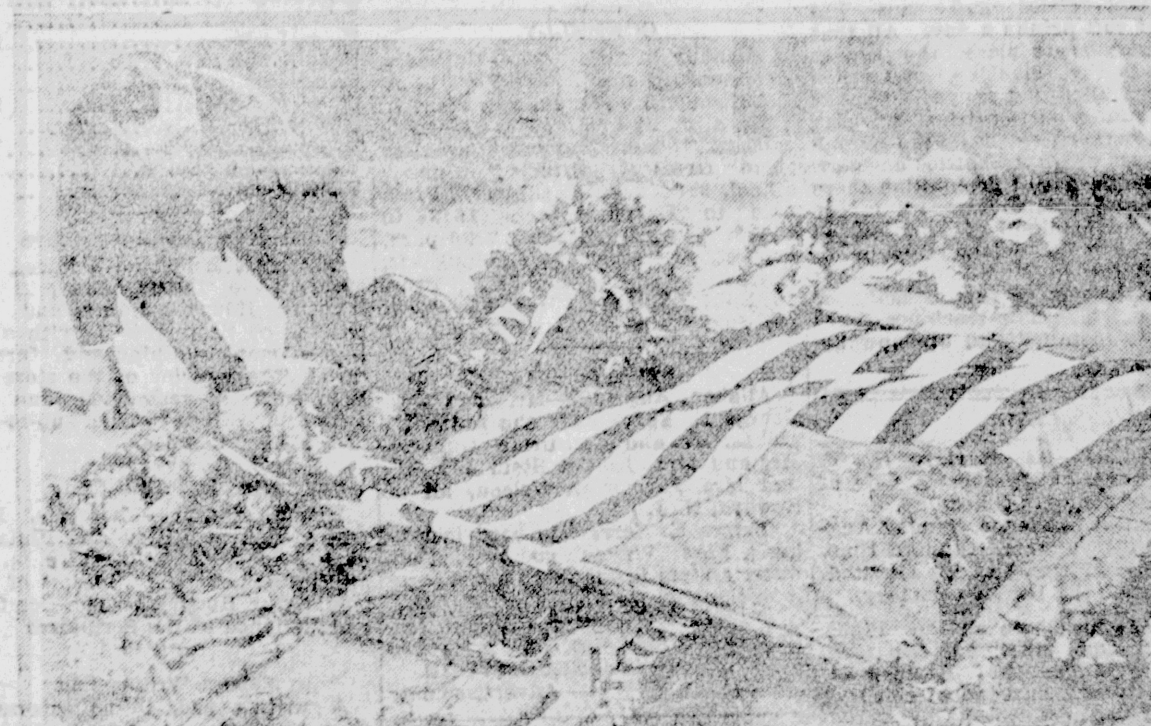

Writing to the New York Herald, a devotee of the "royal game" puts the query "Is golf, after all, an Irish game?"

In asking the question, it is done with respect and reverence, in no sense to disturb the settled ease and mental poise and satisfaction of ye good Scot or Briton. Why the suggestion, however? Simply this: Ireland was the first of the islands to be reclaimed from Druidism and converted to Christianity. That was in the early Fifth century. After that Scotia or Scotland became Christian—the Sixth century; England in the Eighth and Germany in the Ninth century, and all following and through Irish missionaries. True also that the Scotch and Irish were practically all Celt and one people then and all friendly. Now, then, it is of the old Irish folklore that St. Patrick at the famous Druid feast showed (1) that the leg of a bird was larger than a quarter of beef (2) that a dog could kill the bird, and (3) that three leaves could joint, subside on one stem, and at that feast "there were feats of strength and art all round," and among the games was the game of "Nine Holes."

That was the first mention of the nine hole game, of course. It was so played in Ireland for centuries. It was the putting of the ball into each hole of the nine as laid out in the course. Therefore, the question: Was that game the forerunner of its kind in the world, and if so was it the forerunner or keystone of golf?

Ancient School Book.

The oldest known A B C in existence is a little child's alphabet scratched on an ink bottle of black ware found in an ancient Greek settlement in Italy, believed to belong to the Fifth century, B. C.

Major John C. Emery, Commander of the American Legion, is here shown placing a stiff American flag on the grave of the unknown Patriot at the Arc de Triomphe in Paris. Members of the American Legion arriving in France aboard the S. S. George Washington, of the American Line, were given an ovation at every point they touched seldom given any other foreign body of visitors. Naval, civil and military authorities turned out to pay respects to the men who fought on the battlefields of France. The Legion is in France to dedicate a memorial to the American soldiers who fell on the French battlefields.

JANSEN FINDS NEW RYE SERUM

President of Farm Bureau Found
Treating Apple Trees From Which
Will be Gathered Fruit for Cider
at Farm Bureau Picnic.

A very active gentleman armed with a syringe with the sharp pointed nozzle of which he was puncturing
the bark of a tree and carefully injecting a small amount of some liquid. The face of the busy man looked like this:

That is what a Freeman reporter who visited the farm of A. E. Jansen, president of the Ulster County Farm Bureau, at New Paltz late yesterday afternoon, found. Here was probably the mystery hinted at by E. W.
Hathaway, who had been interviewed by the same reporter earlier in the day.

"Wait a minute," said Mr. Jansen when the reporter began to ask what he was doing. "I have only two more trees to treat and then I will explain." After going through the process on the two remaining trees, which the reporter observed each bore a heavy crop of nearly ripe apples. Mr. Jansen carefully laid aside the syringe and was ready to talk.

"Hathaway ought not to have given you a hint to come here," he said.
"For I intended to hold this as a surprise for our picnic in Forsyth Park next Wednesday. You know I am at the head of the Department of Cider Apples and these are the apples for use in making cider at the picnic."

"So long as you have caught me in the act, I might as well tell you that the syringe contained a newly discovered serum, made from rye. I share in Mr. Hathaway's contempt for the crudity of Millard Davis's grafting and budding. That is an antiquity. Inoculation with serum is the latest and best way to do things.
And talk about 'pep' in hot dogs!

What do you suppose will be in the cider made from apples that grow on these apple trees that have been inoculated with rye serum? It's the greatest scientific discovery of the age and timely, oh so timely.

"As to cider mixing well with other drinks at the picnic—well, just you be there and try it. Mix some milk with this cider from apples of rye serum treated trees and what will it naturally be? You ought to know the answer. Here is an apple from one of the treated trees. Just bite into it where it has been bruised
a little and see what you think of it."

The reporter bit—and came away wondering how William H. Anderson would like a few barrels of such apples.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Junius

Three Cent Stamps.

The government is planning to post the price of postage stamps for ordinary letters to three cents, and to have that it does. There is also rather too much letter writing in this world, and if another cent will have a deterrent effect it will relieve us of that much.

Most of the letters are rather painful. They beg to state, they enclose herewith, they urge us to find enclosed, or warn us that they are sending under separate cover. They beg to acknowledge or regret to inform;
they take pleasure in quoting, they trust that we have received in good order this thing or that. They are all alike as a dime's worth of gum drops.

Far be it from us to tell the government its business, but the method of selling stamps has been all wrong.
Let the recipient, and not the sender pay the postage. Each morning when the postman brings you, say a half dozen envelopes, sealed but without stamps. You look through them. Some you reject, of course, and on these the government would sus-tain the loss, but on others you are willing to pay quite a tariff. Like this:

For single men, letter from girl	$4.00
Married men, letter from wife	.01
Letter selling oil stock	.00
Letter enclosing check	5.00
Letter with stock dividends	6.00
Letter notifying one of assess- ment	.00
Wedding announcements	.00
Dinner invitations	.65
Fishing invitations	9.00
Invitation to help in drive	.00

This gives a sketchy outline, but you can get the drift. Perhaps too, if attractive young women carried the mails, and were persuasive enough even higher prices could be had.

We believe that higher postage would materially cut down the number of post cards one gets from various reporters and summer vacation-ists. "If my friend sends me a picture postcard, I know I am on his conscience but not on his heart." You know the kind of postcards everybody gets. Things like this:

"Having grand time; wish you were here."

"Lovely people at this lake; wish you were here."

"Lovely bathing and wonderful beach; wish you were here."

"This is a view from our cottage;
wish you were here."

"Dancing pavilion, lovely dances, every evening; wish you were here."

"Picture of four pounder Bob caught; lots of fish at this lake; wish
you were here."

"The bunch in our bathing suits;
wish you were here."

"Here is a picture of the lake in a storm; wish you were here."

"Wish you were here."

These are fairish samples of the average postcard. Of course one appreciates such little attentions.
Yet equally of course one could live for several days, weeks, even, without them. A great many are sent for a penny. Few would be sent for two cents. One has few friends who think that much of one.

Years ago we invented the typewriting machine. It was hailed as considerable wheeze. Before that time business men had been wont to write two or three letters a day by long hand. It took an hour or more.
"Now," say they, "with the typewriting machine we can do this work in ten minutes."

But they didn't. They wrote more and more letters, and finally needed help, and the professional stenographer came into existence. Still the craze for letter writing grew, and Mr. Edison, ever alert, invented a thing that you talk into, called a dictaphone, so that a business man might sit up all hours of the night dictating letters for the stenographer next day.

And that wasn't enough. Machines were invented for turning out letters with wonderful rapidity—hundreds every minute, thousands every hour. A machine was invented so that a man could sign his name 200 times with one stroke of the pen.

What do all these millions of letters talk about? Oh, everything.
The state of the market, of gold,
of one's soul. No subject is ever looked, none is omitted. In starting these cars the government is on the right track. It will not raise the rates of postage, but it will lessen the accumulation of daily mail, and give a little time to attend to business.
But three cents is not enough. Ten cents would be really better.

Why a Dairyman and Stockman should use this Non-Poisonous Fly Killer.

Morgan's Sure Death
Fly & Insect Destroyer
is on sale in this vicinity at the following dealers:

COWS lose weight and give less milk when they have to expend a lot of time and energy fighting flies. Crude carbolic acid or cresote flychasers have been practically the only available animal sprays. They chase flies. But they generally stain and mat the hair. They often cause blisters. They are poisonous.

Our Iron-Clad Guarantee

Morgan's Sure Death Fly and Insect Destroyer is a preparation of clear, non-poisonous, non-irritating insecticide oils. It knocks dead every fly that it hits.
It can be used immediately before milking without danger of tainting the milk, without smothering the the milkers or making cows cough. It keeps cows quiet and makes milking quicker and easier. It won't stain the whitest cow, mat the hair or cause blisters. Used night and morning it keeps cows protected from flies and gnats—enables them to produce from 20 to 25 per cent more milk. Meat and work animals that are sprayed with Morgan's Sure Death stay in good condition and gain flesh.

Buy it from Your Local Dealer

More than a thousand feed and grain stores, hardware stores, drug stores and general stores in New York state alone can supply this different and improved spray. It has been used with entire satisfaction by many owners of pure breeds and by leading dairy men for years.

We are listing in this advertisement the names of progressive dealers who are prepared to supply you promptly with Morgan's Sure Death. Look up the nearest dealer and buy from him. He will sell you a full gallon and a first-class hand spray for $2.25, or a gallon without the hand spray for $1.59.

DIRIGIBLE DEAD ARE FORTY-THREE

But One American and Five Englishmen Escaped—Official Inquiry Begun—Said to Have Carried Too Much Weight for Framework.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Hull, England, Aug. 25.—Official inquiry was begun here today to fix the responsibility for the loss of the world's greatest dirigible, the ZR-2, which lies a mass of charred and tangled wreckage in the Humber River.

The disaster—the most appalling in history of peace time aeronautics—was almost instantaneous. The breaking of the girders and two explosions which broke the back of the giant craft, sending her crashing with the loss of 43 lives, all occurred within five seconds.

Out of the 49 men on board the giants of the skies only six escaped. One of them an American—Norman O. Walker, a rigger, of Commerce, Texas.

From stories told by survivors and the observations of experts the ZR-2 was carrying too much weight for her framework. Several girders are believed to have broken under the strain, penetrating the fuel tanks. The petrol flowed out and was ignited by the motor causing violent explosions.

Search of the Humber River and the wreckage is under way for bodies of victims.

An inquest over the dead will be held later.

The British air ministry was in sole charge of the craft when she was wrecked. She had not yet been turned over to the United States navy department. Her final and fatal flight was being made under the direction of British air marshal, E. M. Maitland and Lieut. A. H. Wann, of the British air service. Commander L. H. Maxfield, U. S. N., who was to have been in charge of the dirigible on her voyage across the Atlantic was on board as an official observer and "learner."

The presence of mind of Lieut. Wann averted what would have been a greater disaster.

The ship began to buckle and "hump" while she was over this city. Instantly the commander turned her towards the Humber, knowing that if the blazing craft fell upon Hull it would be a calamity for the city.

The horror of the disaster cast a pall of sorrow over all England.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The funeral of Richard J. Lane of the town of Kingston will be held at his late residence on the Plank road, Friday morning at 9 o'clock and at St. John's Church, Stony Hollow, 9:30, where a requiem mass will be celebrated for the repose of his soul. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery, this city.

Pravin Van Alstyne died at Kinderhook, Monday, aged 24 years. He was the youngest son of the late Edward Van Alstyne of Sunnyside, and had been ill in France the last two years with slow typhoid fever. About two months he came back to this country and was at the Presbyterian hospital in New York city a month. He was brought to Kinderhook three weeks ago in hope that the change might be beneficial. Mr. Van Alstyne was a grandson of the late Captain Bartholomew Pravin, a veteran of the Civil War. He died at the home of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Howard. The deceased went overseas to France during the World war as a Y. M. C. A. worker. He is survived by his wife, two brothers, James of Sunnyside, and Louis of this city, and four sisters, Mrs. Lawrence Howard of Kinderhook, Mrs. Harold Wilson of Clemon, Miss Jean Van Alstyne of New York city, and Miss Kathryn Van Alstyne of Washington, D. C.

ZEEH'S NEW PLANT.

Has Electrical Machine That Bottles 750 Cases a Day.

Police Commissioner Peter P. Zeeh has made a number of modern improvements to his bottling works on West Union street, and now has one of the most modern bottling plants along the Hudson river. Among the new improvements installed is an electrical bottling machine that bottles and caps 750 cases of soft drinks a day. All that is necessary is to place the empty bottles in the machine and they come out filled and capped. He has also installed an electrical washing machine that washes thoroughly sixty cases of empty bottles an hour. Since the advent of prohibition there has been a gradual increase in the number of drinkers of "soft" stuff, and to meet the demands of an increasing trade Commissioner Zeeh decided to enlarge the capacity of his plant. The new machines have just been installed and are now being used.

SCINTILLATE FOR ROTARY

Poultney Bigelow, Judge Clearwater and Edward Hungerford Amuse or Instruct Club and its Ex-Soldier Co-Voyagers at Lake Katrine.

What President Watts termed "a galaxy of talent of dazzling brilliancy," composed of Poultney Bigelow, Judge Clearwater and Edward Hungerford entertained the Rotary Club and their score of more of soldier guests after one of John Cuervo's matchless chicken dinners at Lake Katrine on Wednesday evening. Mr. Bigelow, just back from Japan, and Mr. Hungerford, just back from Europe, were instructive as well as entertaining and Judge Clearwater aiming to be entertaining only, succeeded admirably in his effort to establish, for the time being, what he termed "the fallacious notion that I belong to a mendacious profession." If the judge made any statement that was true, it was done inadvertently and his entire address was a masterpiece of this peculiarly Dutch form of humor.

Mr. Bigelow gave the result of his observation in Japan and his theory as to the cause of anti-Japanese feeling in this country. Briefly summarized this theory is that we went to Japan preaching "Do as we do, become like us; imitate us and become great." The Japanese acted on this advice and succeeded in large measure. Then, because they shared in the business of the world and became our competitors, we got jealous. China had been open to the exploitation by the white people, without restraint or law. If a white man killed a Chinaman he paid $5 to the family and that ended it. Japan has gone into certain sections of China and established law and order. This is curtailing the opportunities for unlimited exploitation. Japan has succeeded and success is the one thing we cannot forgive.

The "yellow peril" is a chimera and Japanese war scares are the result of propaganda. This is the day of propaganda and we should know who is paying for all this mendacity. The government should get after those propaganda funds, be they religious, charitable, political or in support of various fads. We have a scare over war with Japan and the Japanese people are being frightened over the prospect of war with us.

The romance of old Japan can be found only in museums. Talk to a Japanese about the old things and he shrugs his shoulders. Talk of electric development, machinery, railroads and he is interested. Japan found Korea dead, without roads or education. Korea now has roads, schools, law, politics, all instituted by Japan. Japan is a civilization. It has gone into Korea as we ought to have gone into Mexico.

Edward Hungerford spoke briefly of his observation in Europe. France is catching hold and making good, not so rapidly as Germany but more rapidly than England or any other European nation. Every industry is over-stuffed. The butter is spread very thinly, but very evenly. Every body works a little so there are only 75,000 unemployed. The soldiers who are at Willow, under government care, were guests of the Rotary Club, being brought down and returned in automobiles at the expense of the Rotarians. Despite their wounds and illness, they were a jolly lot and seemed to appreciate greatly the break in the monotony of their existence.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 25.—The stock exchange again showed a heavy tone at the opening this morning. Mexican Petroleum after opening 1/2 lower at 90 broke to 88 1/2, and Pan-American Petroleum yielded to 40 1/2. U. S. Steel was 1/2 lower at 72 1/2, while Baldwin locomotive fell over 1 point to 70 1/2. General Motors fell 1/2 to 9 1/2, and Famous Players was 1/4 higher at 54 1/2. The railroad issues were again in supply. Northern Pacific dropping 1/2 to 68 1/2 and St. Paul preferred showed a loss of 1/2 to 35 1/2. There was heavy selling of Corn Products which yielded over one point to 63 1/2.

Professional operators are still confident of lower prices. Losses were forced in the railroad group at the outset, but by the end of the first hour the losses were more than recovered by the railroad list. Union Pacific from 117 1/2 rallied to 118 1/2 and Northern Pacific from 69 1/2 to 70 1/2. Utah Copper recovered to 42 1/2. Strength was displayed by Studebaker, which made a gain of 1 1/2 to 67. General Electric, Kelly-Springfield Tire, Anaconda, American Sumatra Tobacco and Chandler Motors showed fractional gains. A weak feature was the United Drug, which dropped to 49 1/2, against 52 Wednesday's closing price. Mexican Petroleum from the low of 88 1/2, rallied to 90 1/2.

Baseless reports of the deferring of the dividend caused a break of six points in Mexican Petroleum in the early afternoon to a new low of 84 1/2. When these rumors were officially denied the stock rallied to 91.

At the beginning of the last hour the majority of the active issues while showing a recession from the best prices of the day, retained good gains as compared with Wednesday's final figures. In the railroad list, Great Northern preferred, which had risen to 71 1/2, sold down to 69 1/2 and Northern Pacific from its high of 71 1/2 receded to 70 1/2. Famous Players held the high figure of 55, a gain of 1 1/2 over the previous day's close. General Electric reacted from 114 1/2 to 113 1/2.

The market closed steady; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

Make a Writing Pad.

A writing pad, to be successful, must be solid and of good size. A board half an inch thick, nine by twelve inches, makes the best pad. Buy half a yard of black elastic, half an inch wide, the strongest you can get, overlap the ends and sew firmly together into the form of a belt. Slip this over the end of the board. It will keep in place, both blotting and writing paper and can be moved up and down the board as you need it. On a windy day it is invaluable, setting both hands free.

SOCIETY NOTES

Surprise at Sawkill.

Sawkill, Aug. 25.—A surprise was tendered Mr. and Mrs. C. Williams at their home here Sunday evening, August 21, and a most enjoyable time was had by the many guests present. Among those in the party were Miss J. McKenna, Mrs. M. Armstrong, Miss E. Armstrong, Mrs. W. Flynn, Miss M. Flynn, Miss H. McCabe of Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. W. Flynn and Miss D. Flynn of Jamaica, Miss M. McCormack, Mr. and Mrs. E. Gallagher, Miss C. Gallagher, Mrs. Reynolds of New York, Mrs. R. Yates, J. Yates, Mrs. L. Deske, Miss M. Ludeskie of Jersey City, Lew. Hulser, Miss F. Hulser, Miss Hazel Hulser, Mrs. Neenan and the Misses Neenan of Sawkill, Miss Craig of Yonkers, Miss Pell of West Hurley and W. McKenna. Jazz music was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. S. Flynn, W. McKenna and Lou Hulser. A buffet lunch was served. Dancing followed, which continued until early in the morning.

Birthday Supper.

A very pleasant surprise party was held at the home of Miss Emma Rasmussen in honor of her friend Benny Van Keuren on August 23, being his twenty-first birthday. Throughout the evening there were games and a novelty box-trot was given by Miss Mary Imperial and Benny Van Keuren and Harvey Kats sang a solo, "Over the Hill," accompanied by Miss Celestial Smith at the piano. At twelve o'clock all marched to the dining room where one thing which drew a lot of attention from the young folks was the birthday cake in the center of the table all decorated with roses and birthday greetings. Those present were: Emma Rasmussen, Benny Van Keuren, Mary Imperial, Jaume DeWitt, Mary McGrath, Harvy Kats, Celestial Smith, Frank Power, Bill Leete, Louis Van Keuren, Leo Partlan, Helen and Myra Rasmussen. All left in the wee hours of the morning wishing Benny Van Keuren more happy birthdays and voting Emma Rasmussen a royal entertainer.

Club Visits Poughkeepsie Member.

The members of the Helping Hand Club held their regular monthly meeting Wednesday, August 17, with a most complete and enjoyable surprise upon Mrs. George Combeck at her new home in Poughkeepsie, she having but recently moved there from Kingston. Amid much hilarity and surprise the members were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Combeck, also Miss Alice, in their usual hearty and welcome way. The evening was most delightfully spent with victrola and piano selections, after which the members spread a most delicious repast, the hostess being informed nothing was required of her but plenty of fresh water. The following members were present: Mrs. Marie E. V. Hurt, president, Mrs. Cecilia Vandervee, assistant secretary, Mrs. Beatrice Fitzgerald, Mrs. Annie Ray, Mrs. Jennie Combeck, Miss Eula Hubbs, Mrs. Bertha Vandervee, secretary. The members with a very pretty speech by their president, presented Mrs. Combeck with a very serviceable memory gift for which she thanked the members, assuring them of her cooperation at all times with them. The members departed for Kingston carrying another most enjoyable memory among its many.

How Was He to Know?

The most embarrassing moment in my life came when I was a junior in high school. As in the case of most boys of that age, I had a girl friend I escorted to and from various events, one evening we attended a lecture given by a prominent lawyer. After it was over I took the girl home and we went into the library to study for an exam. Soon her parents arrived and were taking their wraps off in the hall when her mother called to us and asked us how we liked the lecture. I immediately spoke up: "Well, I didn't think much of it."

Strong "Make-Believe."

Donald and his sister Helen delight in playing house together. Each child has a house in different parts of the same room. Helen was making a call on Donald, and Donald invited her to sit down on the only chair he had in his house, while he sat down on a small bucket, which he had turned upside down. Finally Donald grew restless sitting on the upturned bucket, and in the course of the conversation he asked: "How long are you going to stay?" "I think I'll stay all night," Donald twisted around on the little bucket which was becoming a more uncomfortable seat all the while, and said quite emphatically: "Well, if you're going to stay all night, I guess you'll have to give me that chair, cuz I can't stand this bucket."

Plan to Get Gold From Sand.

It has been known for many years that Adirondack sand contains gold deposits that will run from five to seven dollars per ton. No practical process was known by which the gold could be obtained at a profit, although several attempts have been made in various sections of the mountains.

Now, however, it is reported that a process has been perfected which will insure a profit, and that two large mills will soon be erected in the northern Adirondacks. Each will be equipped to handle ten tons of sand per hour. It is rumored the capital is to be furnished by a group of Canadian and United States bankers.

FISH STEW EXCELLENT DISH

Home Demonstration Agents of the Department of Agriculture Recommend It Highly.

The "pine bark fish stew," which is being marketed by the canning clubs in the southern states along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, should be of interest to housewives, says the New York Times. The development of combination foods peculiar to certain localities has been particularly fostered by extension agents of the United States Department of Agriculture and the state agricultural colleges which carry on boys' and girls' club work. Almost every country in the world and practically every district in the United States, has a special "one-piece" dish made of the products in that region. The gumbo of the far South, the New England boiled dinner, the bouillabaisse of Marseilles reproduced in New Orleans, Hungarian goulash, Chinese chop suey, Indian curry, Irish stew, French ragout, are instances of this tendency to blend flavors in one dish.

Pine bark fish stew is a characteristic dish in South Carolina. Very probably it was introduced by settlers from the southern part of France and from Italy. Italians living in southern California serve a similar fish stew. The home demonstration agents, seeking a popular and somewhat novel product which would not be in competition with commercial canned goods, decided to have the clubs make a specialty of canning pine bark fish stew.

Onion, tomatoes, celery, pimento and fish are the ingredients, which are cooked slowly in vegetable oil and poured over "southern style" rice. At large out-of-doors gatherings and community lunches this is served on pieces of pine bark, giving the dish its name. In Florida, Georgia and all the Gulf states various local fish are adapted to the combination.

CAN ONLY SEE DARK SIDE

Unfortunate Individuals Are Those Who Essay to Make Conversation About the Weather.

The weather is a singularly unfortunate institution. When it is bad it is freely abused; when it is good it becomes an object for profound suspicion. A wet day is an abomination; a fine one is an incipient drought. Three fine days in succession are enough to bring into blossom little paragraphs announcing that some body's water supply will shortly have to be curtailed, and a week of them sees the farmers of Blankshire eloquently face to face with approaching ruin. A bad summer will not bear thinking about; a good one is proof that the climate of Europe is rapidly changing, that the North pole will soon enjoy the temperature of the equator, and that a few more thousand years will see mankind finally frizzled off the surface of a thoroughly inhospitable planet. This grateful and comforting game of looking a gift horse in the mouth is now being applied to the only good result of the coal stoppage—our cleaner atmosphere. Having survived the first shock of ill-considered gratitude at being able to see their own city, many Londoners, an evening paper announces, are now discovering that a feeling of lassitude and an overpowering inclination to yawn are the result of living in an unusually pure atmosphere.—Manchester Guardian.

Prompt Delivery.

George L. Loft, son of the candy magnate and former congressman, created a sensation on the stock exchange recently when he sold a suit of clothes off his back for $30 and made spot delivery. The young broker breezed onto the floor of the exchange early in the session, wearing a brand-new Palm Beach suit. It was so conspicuous some of his colleagues remarked him a bit and in the fracas the coat was torn slightly. Thereupon Loft yelled out for a bid for the outfit, just as if he were selling 100 shares of Loft, Inc. A broker in the crowd snapped back a bid of $30 and demanded instantaneous delivery. Loft was game. He peeled off his coat and then shed his trousers and departed for the luncheon club attired in his B. V. Ds. He was able to resume business later through the discovery of an old suit of clothes in a locker.—New York Tribune.

Doubles Shooting Popular.

Doubles shooting is gaining great popularity among trapshooters of this country. By doubles shooting is meant the release of two targets at the same time, one to the left and the other to the right. The shooter then tries to break both of them before they fall to the ground, firing one load at each target. This is a real test of shooting ability, and for this reason it is gaining in popularity. No one seeks a real test of his ability more than a trapshot. Because of the increased interest in this phase of the sport it is apparent that the doubles championship handicap this year will be a much better event than in the past. The shooters have had greater practice at this style of shooting than ever before.

"SHAVINGS" COMES WITH GUARANTEE

Kingston wants good shows, needs them in its social life to entertain its amusement lovers and their visiting friends and make them proud to ask their relatives, sweethearts and friends to join them in an evening's pleasure. Manager Gildersleeve has induced Col. Henry W. Savage to send "Shavings" and the entire original cast and production to Kingston. The indications are that a well filled house will greet this famous play but there is some doubt that every seat will be filled and in order to make a good Manager Gildersleeve has to give Mr. Savage a capacity audience and even then the small seating capacity will only be a fair showing. In order to satisfy the skeptical and few who think it impossible for such well known stars as Harry Beresford who plays "Shavings" James Bradbury, William Robins, Ben Lodge, Miss Edith Gresham, Willa Frederick, Lillian Marie, Dudley Clements, Fred Bickel and many others all original members of the Broadway cast to come to Kingston Manager Gildersleeve gives his personal guarantee that every one of the cast will be here and also that every bit of the production will be staged exactly as when presented to the theatregoers of New York city. The story is as famous as "Lightnin'" and will please equally as well.

HOLD TETHER BALL CONTEST

The first annual Tether Ball Tournament will open at Forsyth Park, Friday, August 26. The initial round of the tourney, beginning at 10 a. m., must be played off on the first day. The local racket wielders have become quite skillful in the new game and indications point to keen competition among the thirty-two entries. Although tether ball is barely a week old at Forsyth Park, it has proved one of the most popular sports for boys ever introduced.

The drawings for the first round are as follows: J. Merritt and W. Goldstein, D. Levy and H. McSpirt, R. Lewis and G. McAuliffe, J. Ryan and D. Irwin, J. Burns and S. North, S. Gold and D. Elks Team May Have Big Job On Hands At Clambake.

Tony Kohl, steward of the Elks Club, has donated a silver loving cup as a prize to be played for by baseball teams against the Elks team, the prize to become the property of the winner of three annual games. Sunday, August 28, the Colonials will have an open date and Mr. Kohl has invited the players to attend the Elks' clambake at the fording place along the Esopus creek and they will play a game with the Elks' team for the prize. There will be a number of athletic events, S. Cohen's Sons having donated a silk umbrella which will be given as a prize to the winner of the 100 yard dash; a fine water color has been donated by E. Winter's Sons which will be awarded the winner of the 220-yard running race; and a silver lunch set, a donation from Charles A. Warren the sporting goods dealer, will be given the winner of the 440-yard race. There will be several other prizes awarded. There will be two takes during the afternoon, the first one to be opened at 3 o'clock and the second one at 5 o'clock. Indications are that about 350 Elks will enjoy the feast that will be prepared for them.

VIADUCTS GOT TOO MUCH WILLIAMS

Troy Team Put Up Fast, Clean Game That Kept Fans On The Field Until Last Man Was Out In Ninth—Score Was 4-2.

The Viaducts of Troy offered the Colonials some stiff opposition at the Athletic field yesterday afternoon, but the masterly pitching of "Dick" Williams and the superior batting of the Kingston team gave them another victory, the score being 4 to 2. The Trojans put up a hard fight and had the fans on edge in the ninth, but Williams proved himself equal to the occasion and pitched himself out of a bad hole.

Leo Fitzgerald, the speedy center fielder of the Colonials, had an excellent day at the bat, getting three hits out of four trips to the plate. Captain Schirck also had a good day, getting a two-bagger and a single out of four times up.

"Kid" Moore started things going for the local outfit in the third when he tripled to center with no one out. Rice and Williams failed to bring him across, but Fitzgerald cracked out a hit and Moore crossed the plate. Moore took second when Lemay let the ball get by him, and scored when Schirck doubled to center.

Kingston added another in the fourth when Connors doubled to left with one down. Schwab fled to Lemay, and Connors crossed the plate when the right-fielder threw wild in attempting to catch him at third.

The final tally came in the fifth. Rice started off with a double and took third on Fitzgerald's hit. Rice attempted to score when Fitzgerald stole second, but was caught between the bases and run down. Schirck came through with another clean hit and Fitzgerald crossed the plate.

The visitors scored their first tally in the fifth. Marterer got the first hit off Williams when he started off the inning by tripling to center. He scored on the next play when Langlotz hit to Connors and was thrown out at first.

The Trojans got another in the seventh. Walkinshaw, first man up, singled, and was sacrificed along by Barrett. Langlotz scored him with a single to right.

A pretty play by Jack Robins prevented a possible Troy run in the eighth. With two out Pratt hit one to left for three bases. He took two long a lead off third, however, and a quick throw from Robins to Rice cut him down.

The visitors caused some excitement in their half of the ninth. With one man down Walkinshaw got his second hit, and Barrett got free transportation to first. Marterer fled to Schwab for the second out and Langlotz ended the game with a foul to Robins.

MAKES NEW BED

River Indus Changes Its Course
With Regularity.

Inhabitants of Waziristan Face Perpetual Peril, as Water Constantly Moves in a New Direction.

The frequently heard news that an eastern river has changed its course with danger to property and life seems incredible until one has actually seen an active river "getting busy" on a new course, writes a correspondent from Waziristan, India.

Thus the Indus is a perpetual problem, and for this reason: All provisions must cross its broad waters, as Waziristan is on the west bank and in desert country.

Every October the river liberates, and a bridge of boats temporarily solves the problem.

But each May it wakes up, shakes itself out of its sleep and probably out of its original course.

The bridge is hurriedly dismantled, and there ensues anxious speculation among the engineers.

Which way is the water coming?

After observations and soundings the new position of the port, quaintly called "Steamer Point," is fixed. There follows a procession of railway men, provision experts, coolies (laborers) and camels. Lines are laid, "dumps" arise and within a week the erstwhile, lonely river bank is populated and becomes a "going concern."

Even then a wary eye has to be kept on the encroaching waters. Both the railway and the supply "dumps" have to be moved farther and farther back. Sometimes even in a single night the river will flow away into a new and unexpected channel; or, maybe, it will forsake a portion of its bed, leaving a yellow sandbank in its place.

The bank itself becomes jagged like a piece of bread into which a child has made large bites.

The water swirls ever inward and cracks appear ten feet within the bank; the cracks deepen, and without warning another large lump of shore crumbles away. A motor car that stopped on such a piece disappeared into the river and has not been seen since.

And some of these effects are curious.

A cluster of three palm trees, which were well away from the water last week, were little islands yesterday. This morning they had disappeared!

Probably they are miles down the stream for the current is swift and gives no quarter.

You may imagine these quiet trees, torn from their native soil, turning ferociously round and round at the mercy of the sweeping current.

The flotilla and jetties of life and death go eddying past on the bosom of the stream. Here a dead camel, there a bevy of jam tins catches the eye and fades away downstream.

Yet with all the turmoil and trouble the Indus has a charm of its own, and it is most fascinating to watch the work of elemental nature.

This evening, as I saw the bank collapsing bit by bit, I could not help thinking of the story of the engineer who built his bungalow a comfortable mile from the river. The next year the water was lapping at his garden gate.

And I wondered if in a year or two the river would threaten our own little homesteads away back in the distance.

In President of Assyria.

Just as George Washington in America became known to posterity as the "Father of His Country," the first woman president of a nation may be known as the "Mother of Assyria." Lady Surma, first executive of the new Assyrian republic, practically created the nation when she obtained from England the grant of 20,000 square miles of land in the Kurdistan mountains, and this, it is said in London, may win her the unique title.

Lady Surma was ambassador to England from the Assyrians—and incidentally the first woman ambassador in the world—when she obtained the grant of the new territory from Britain. Her brother, Mar Chimon, had been patriarch of the Assyrians, and following his murder a new form of government was outlined. When the new assembly of the Assyrians was organized, the ambassador who won for the country its new territory was at once urged for its ruler.

Lady Surma was educated by British tutors and is an accomplished linguist.

Arabic Literature Recovering.

"Arabic Literature," writes a correspondent to the London Morning Post, is recovering from a period of depression induced by the war. Of the books published during the last year, one of the most interesting is "Nasir al-Harb," containing rare and interesting comments on the war—rare in the sense that every fact is narrated from the standpoint of the Oriental philosopher. The little volume is filled with appropriate comments on the war, and their post-war conditions, culled from the works of the classical Arabic poets. Perhaps the most amusing passage is that which is selected for Montenegro: "I have said my share and my drink; I have, there, fore, nothing more or better to say."

Really Clever.

"Mabel is an awfully clever girl," "This one's a regular genius with the pen!" "That's where her cleverness comes in. She looks a man to believe that she thinks he is worth listening to."

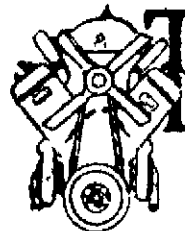

No Room for More.

"I might as well read the newspaper and get a different opinion," "Oh, yes! Good! Good! I have three already!"—Duffell.

THE NEW Oldsmobile 8

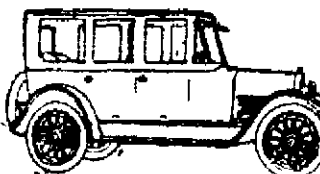

Model 47

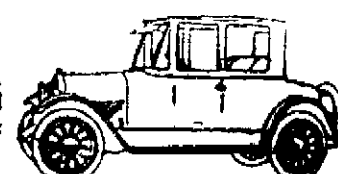

THIS eight-cylinder Oldsmobile is a revolution in value. Indeed it establishes a new standard of excellence for medium size, high powered, multi-cylinder automobiles.

Consider it from every point of view. This compact yet roomy car is distinguished by all the elegance of line and finish characteristic of fine cars. It offers all the mechanical ability and dependability expected in a high grade eight-cylinder automobile at any price. Its economy is little short of amazing.

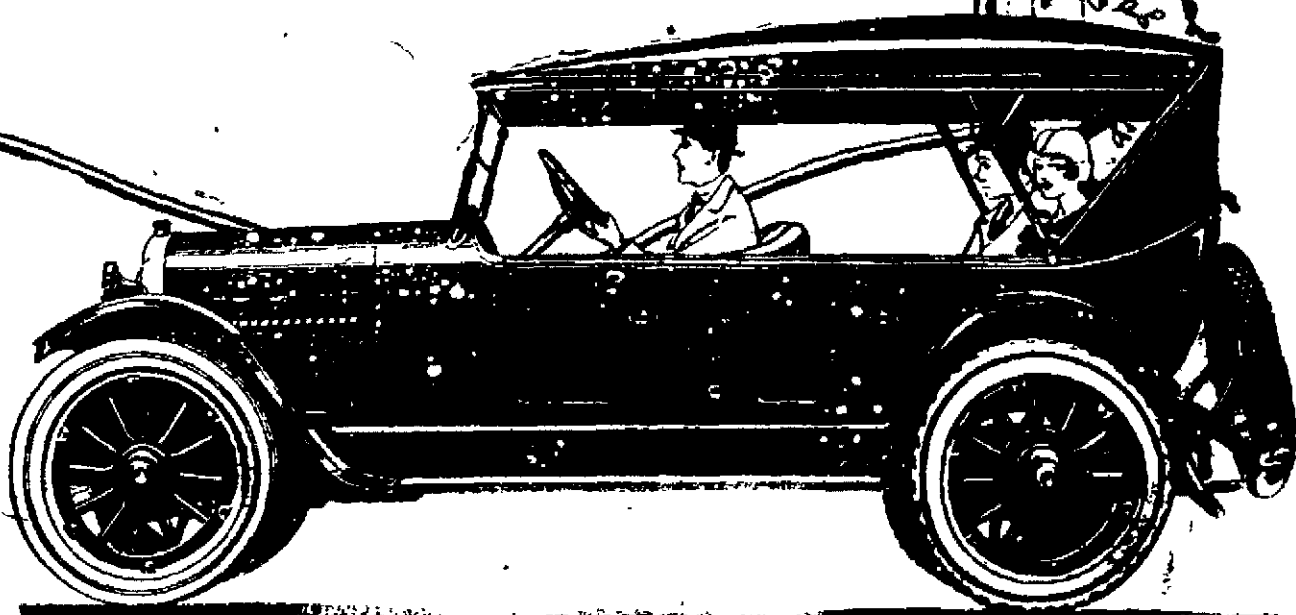

A few minutes behind the wheel of this "eight" will convince you that it is a finely balanced, sweet running, powerful piece of mechanism, at all speeds from 1 to 70 miles an hour. A careful investigation of the rugged chassis (built on a 115-inch wheelbase) will give you complete assurance of long dependable, satisfying service.

Four-passenger touring, $1695. Sedan and Coupe, $2395. All prices f. o. b. Lansing. War tax additional.

MR. JINKS WAS DISCOURAGED

With All His Hard Work on "Flyver," All He Could Do Was Make the Horn Squawk.

Mr. Jinks has been the proud possessor of a brand-new flyver for nearly three weeks, and his precious treasure is never far from his thoughts. Every moment he can spare is devoted to polishing its glossy coat or tinkering with its vital parts in the effort to discover the cause of its occasional spells of malice.

The other night—about two o'clock—Mrs. Jinks was awakened by terrible yowls emitted by the family cat. Not the cat was a peaceful pussy and not at all given to nocturnal vocal demonstrations. Imagine Mrs. Jinks' astonishment when she arose and discovered her husband sitting on the edge of the bed, vigorously twisting the cat's tail round and round.

"John," she protested, reaching for the pet with some difficulty, "what on earth are you doing?"

Mr. Jinks was evidently in a somnolent state, for he scratched his head and responded sleepily:

"She won't go, honey; she simply won't go. I've cranked and cranked on 'er horn squawks and chack all, Gosh! I can't get 'er up for repairs. See a thin' 'mash be mated, kinder name 'er 'Sdary shame, an' ain't paid for 'er yet!"—From Nuzzers.

DOG RECOGNIZED ITS HOME

Even at Sea, and at Some Distance, Animal Knew Destroyer to Which It Belonged.

Except for the Berlin notice printed boldly on the front, most people have the greatest difficulty in recognizing one of the 300 destroyers in the United States navy fleet. But there is a dog aboard the destroyer Schenck No. 120 which swears that he knows his home far more than his human intelligence.

This dog, of no particular breed, has been aboard the Schenck for about two years.

Officers aboard the Schenck are told the story of how, not long ago, when the vessel was from Pensacola to Guantanamo, the dog was lost. He could not be found when the ship for Guantanamo arrived, although the crew had been searching the town for him for almost two hours.

It developed that the dog, after the Schenck departed, reached another destroyer and went to sea with them.

Proving the strange fact that destroyers are passed well out to sea. The dog was on the bridge and looked on board. He had attracted the attention of the ship's crew.

U.S.S.
Pennsylvania

The U. S. battleship Pennsylvania, which left the Philadelphia Navy Yard with 190 Marines for duty in Panama, is now speeding toward the Canal Zone. The exact destination of the force was not made known, and officials at the Navy Yard said that not even the commanding officers knew the duty they were to perform on arrival in the Canal Zone. It is believed that the Marines will stand by when Costa Rica marches her forces into the tiny bit of territory whose ownership Panama has so earnestly and long contested.

UNLIKE THE OLD-TIME DUEL

Recent Affair of Honor in Paris Actually Appears to Have Been Carefully "Chaperoned."

Not long ago a quarrel broke out between a subprefect and the secretary general of the prefecture in a department of the west. Feeling ran so high that blows were exchanged. Exchanged? No, not quite. The word isn't quite exact. If they had really been exchanged, both the enemies might have thrown up the sponge. But there was bestowal of slaps by one of the functionaries and simple reception without return by the other. That was serious! Only blood could adequately wash the offended cheek!

They secured their witnesses, named the day and bought themselves swords. But the prefect found out about it. At first he tried to effect a reconciliation between the two foes. Vain effort! Then he tried to use his authority to forbid their fighting. Useless threat! They offered him two heroic resolutions to win the right to get themselves killed.

"Well, then, have your confounded throats cut, if you want to!" he cried. "But you shall assist at the combat and I'll hold you responsible for the lives of both of them," he said to the chief clerk of the prefecture. "If anybody gets hurt I shall discharge you!" The chief clerk obeyed without a murmur. He chaperoned the encounter with a huge sword in his hand, and whenever a blow seemed dangerous, he warded off the murderous weapon. In the end they made it up, and the prefect was content.—From Le Grio, Paris.

MEN SET IN "HIGH PLACES."

Those Only Admirable Who Remain Affable and Generous to Those of Lower Levels.

Speaking of the Mount Everest expedition, Sir Francis Younghusband says: "At great heights men get very nervous and irritable. At 16,000 feet they begin to lose patience with one another, and the higher they climb the deeper they hate."

There is a moral in that for men seeking high altitudes in our common human life.

May it never be said of them with truth: "The higher they climb the deeper they hate."

It is a fine thing to find a man who goes upward to great heights without losing his head, his nervous equipoise, his self-control. It is an inspiration to us who plod and drudge along at the lower levels to find him generous, amiable, affable, ready to meet all comers and faithful to his friends.

On the other hand, it is deplorable to come upon a man who wins his way to eminence of any sort, and in that lofty station, instead of looking to the sky and a superior Power, looks down upon "the common herd" and thinks—and tells—how great he is in comparison with them.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Pleasure in Studying Bird Life.

The co-operation of birds and man, studied from the days of Verill, may well become more intimate and more fruitful of results, as our understanding of bird-life grows deeper. Was it not a British statesman, Viscount Grey of Fallodon, who said in one of his public speeches that the appreciation and study of birds yields a pleasure "purer and more lasting than any pleasures of excitement, and, in the long run, happier than personal success?"

Ancient Surgery.

That the use of splints in the treatment of fractures was known to the rude practitioners of prehistoric America is revealed by examination of the skeleton of a young woman recently exhumed in the Pueblo ruins at Aztec, N. M., says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The left forearm, badly broken in two places, was surrounded by six carefully made splints of wood, with evidence that there had been eight or nine.

Big Result From Small Idea.

A boy of seventeen attended a "spirit-rapping" seance, and found that the table stood upon two brass rails running across the stage. He suspected electricity. Taking a piece of insulated wire, the ends of which were open, he laid it across the two brass rails, and the "spirit" ceased to rap. Years afterward, this early experiment in track-circuiting came to his mind, and he invented the automatic system of signaling.

White Rose COFFEE

New York's Own Drink

COFFEE to the New Yorker is a drink that either irritates or satisfies because he recognizes instantly the least falling off of strength or flavor.

Most of his life he has been a coffee drinker—New York is a coffee-drinking city—and this intensive training has made him an exacting judge of good coffee.

Our long experience in packing coffee has taught us that you cannot sell the New Yorker ordinary coffee. So we packed White Rose Coffee specially to meet New York's discriminating coffee taste.

Superstitious Bulgarians Dread Spirits of Evil.

Observe Many Odd Customs Which They Believe of Immense Importance to Their Welfare.

Are you one of those who will not walk under a ladder, raise an umbrella in the house or spill the salt without casting a few grains over your shoulder? If you believe in these or the kindred superstitions fast dying out in this country, you will feel a degree of kinship with the average Bulgarian peasant. For there are so many things a Bulgarian may not do, writes Temple Manning, in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Among the many customs of rural Bulgaria, to neglect which is considered unlucky and even sinful, are the following: To bring flour into the house and neglect to sprinkle it with special incense. This must be done to drive out of the house any demon which may have entered the sack. When the housewife of her daughter goes to the spring for water, she must not neglect to spill a little on the ground before even starting with the pail for the house. This is done to turn out any elemental spirit which has been scooped into the pail. If it isn't done, the spirit may take up its abode in the house, and may even enter the body of one of the family who drinks the water.

If you are asked to eat a loaf of bread you must not part with it without first having cut or torn off a small piece from an end. The spirit that has helped you make the bread must be given a chance to fly out of the loaf and still linger in the house he loves.

Under no circumstances may you give a child a spoon to play with. I do not know just why you may not do this, but it is considered exceedingly unlucky.

Nor can I account for the belief which is common in some far-flung sections of Bulgaria, that it is very unlucky to give a child under seven years of age a bath. The child may wash itself, but that is its own lookout. The mother may wash the child a little also, but not give it a bath all over at one time.

Imagination easily accounts for the prohibition against cleaning a stable, selling milk, fetching water or doing any of the many other farm duties after darkness has fallen.

But how is due to account for the Bulgarian belief that to permit a dog to sleep on the roof of a house will disturb the rest of the dead members of the family? These and countless other superstitions rule the daily work and habits of old Bulgarians and the youths who live and work in many a shift-in region of that hilly land.

Bitter Joking

Elisor Glyn, the novelist, was talking to a reporter about her long visit in Spain.

"The death rate for babies is fearful in Spain," she said. "It is not for that fact the world would soon contain more Spaniards than Chinese; for the Spanish are a remarkably prolific race. Families of 15 and even 20 children are not uncommon among them."

"But these children die off in their infancy because their mothers are so very ignorant of hygiene. I once heard two Spanish doctors joking-joking bitterly, you know—about this maternal ignorance which does so much harm."

"Yes," said the first doctor, "Donna Plana's new baby died off, of course. At the age of two months she was feeding it on pork, cheese and wine."

"Pork, cheese and wine—a good diet, that, for a two-months old baby," said the second doctor. "The rich Romans, though, have a better one for their youngsters. They give it for dinner every evening a large of chops, fried potatoes, sweet pudding and a stiff whisky and soda, with coffee, liqueur and a good strong Havana cigar to follow."

Aviation Marvel Found

An airplane capable of landing without the need of a large aviation field, able to rise without a long run before, able to travel more than 200 miles an hour and, if necessary, to remain aloft at least a few miles an hour, is the latest marvel of aviation. It is a monoplane.

The inventor claims that he already flew on the machine on a small scale and regards his first experiments as indicative of the success of the invention. The new machine is primarily intended for aerial war flying and is to be armed with a machine gun. It is a monoplane.

Remedy for Ants

Here is a singular paragraph in a New York paper: "The old pantry shelves of red ants, rid them with captured alcohol every few weeks." Now, here are you to catch the ant and give him that alcohol bath? The covered little things just won't stand still. —Jackson News.

The Crowning Aggravation

To make matters worse, when your collar is tilted, when you vacillate between a desire to commit suicide and a desire to throw up the job and wander off in some odd mountainous region, in type the old man to say: "Buy your winter fuel now." —London Garden Journal.

Drives Away Ship's Smoke

IS GOLF REALLY IRISH GAME?

Suggestion Put Forward, With Some Evidence, by Correspondent of New York Herald.

Writing to the New York Herald, a devotee of the "royal game" puts the query "Is golf, after all, an Irish game?"

In asking the question it is done with respect and reverence; in no sense to disturb the settled ease and mental poise and satisfaction of ye good Scot or Briton. Why the suggestion, however? Simply this: Ireland was the first of the islands to be reclaimed from Druidism and converted to Christianity. That was in the early Fifth century. After that Scotland became Christian—the Sixth century; England in the Eighth and Germany in the Ninth century, and all following and through Irish missionaries. True also that the Scotch and Irish were practically all Celtic and one people then and all friendly. Now, then, it is of the old Irish folk lore that St. Patrick at the famous Island feast showed (1) that the leg of a bird was larger than a quarter of beef (2) that a dog could kill the bird, and (3) that three leaves could jointly support one stem, and at that feast "where were fruits of strength and art all gone," and among the games was the game of "Nine Stones."

That was the first mention of the nine hole game, of course. It was no played in ground for centuries. It was the putting of the ball into each hole of the nine as laid out in the course. Therefore, the question: Was that game the forerunner of its kind in the world, and if so was it the forerunner of the game of golf?
